OPPOSE RAIL MERGER WITHOUT BURLINGTON

SHAREHOLDERS, OFFICIALS GIVE THEIR OPINION

SEEK TO RETAIN TRACKAGE
RIGHTS BETWEEN ST. PAUL AND CHICAGO

UNDER I. C. C. PLAN BURLINGTON
WOULD BE SEVERED, MADE
HEAD OF ANOTHER SYSTEM

St. Paul, March 4.—(U.P.)—Officials and leading shareholders of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads today indicated they will oppose the proposed unification of the two lines unless the Burlington is included or the merged line is given trackage rights between St. Paul and Chicago.

The Northerns control the majority of stock in the Burlington and use its tracks on the division west of Chicago. Under the interstate commerce commission plan for merging the two lines, the Burlington would be excluded and the Northerns left with the alternative of discontinuing the Chicago-St. Paul division or leasing tracks.

Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, today said he was not certain what proposal will be made to the commission by the Northerns. He admitted Great Northern and Northern Pacific officials had conferred over the merger proposal but said no decision had been reached.

"At present we are unable to say whether the Great Northern will accept the plan conditioned on the granting of a Chicago outlet or whether we will be willing to give up the Burlington at all and if so under what conditions," Budd said.

The Great Northern head indicated he believed neither road would consent to merge if the Burlington were excluded and no distinction of trackage rights to Chicago made.

"Lawyers are struggling with the case and working out what probable line of action can be followed," Budd said. "The Great Northern board will meet March 10 in New York when the consolidation plan will be discussed. A number of conferences will be held in the meantime."

Commenting on the commission's decision, Budd said the chief one of its four points made in offering to permit the Northerns to consolidate is that relating to ownership of the Burlington. While the Chicago outlet question was left open by the commission, Budd indicated that at the bottom of the whole case is the question of whether the parent Northerns shall divest themselves of the Burlington.

Budd said the conference in New York will be attended by Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific, and Louis W. Hill, former chairman of the Great Northern board of directors. They are expected to formulate an answer to the commission's merger plan.

Another point of opposition to the merger voiced by the Northerns is the provision for merger of all terminal facilities. Chief shareholders of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific said their lines built up many of their terminals and to give competing lines equal rights in them would be unfair.

AIMEE DEFENDANT IN TWO DAMAGE SUITS

Los Angeles, March 4.—(U.P.)—Aimee Semple McPherson today was defendant in two suits, each charging the woman evangelist changed her mind in business deals.

Harold Simpson asked $5,000 because, he asserted, Mrs. McPherson failed to keep a motion picture contract. He declared he had made screen tests of the evangelist with the understanding he would produce her first talking picture.

The charge was denied by Al G. Faulkner, financial representative of Angelus Productions, Inc., which is to feature Mrs. McPherson in "Clay in the Potter's Hands."

Carl Brunner, who filed a damage action for $143,380, charged the evangelist agreed to let him select a site for a new church and club home and then dropped the matter after he had spent $10,000 on maps and preparations.

AIRPLANES TO BEAR

Nome, Alaska, March 4.—(U.P.)—Airplanes bearing the bodies of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, Arctic fliers killed in a crash while flying to the relief of the ice-bound trading vessel Nanuk, were expected to fly to Fairbanks, Alaska, today.

Planes with the bodies of the two fliers arrived at Teller late yesterday from the Nanuk. At Fairbanks the bodies will be turned over to relatives of the fliers.

LIFE SLOWLY EBBING FROM WM. H. TAFT

ATTENDANTS REPORT HE ENJOYED RESTFUL NIGHT; CONDITION UNCHANGED

MEMORIES OF DAY 21 YEARS AGO WHEN HE WAS HAILED PRESIDENT, FLICKER TO HIM

Washington, March 4.—(U.P.)—Memories of a day 21 years ago when he was hailed as president of the United States flickered today in the mind of a weary old man who held back the door of death to relive a dream that came true.

Life slowly was ebbing away from William Howard Taft in his home on Wyoming avenue. Attendants reported he enjoyed another restful night and his condition was said to be unchanged.

Reminiscence of that day when he became president—which saw one of the worst blizzards in the capital's history—was the shrill sound of the March wind today as it swayed the trees near the sick room window.

For that other day—there were cheers and shouting; for today, the stillness of the sick room, interrupted only by the whispering of the doctors and the subdued footfalls of the vigilant nurse.

After their noon visit today, Mr. Taft's physicians, Drs. Francis R. Hagner and Thomas A. Clayton, issued the following bulletin:

"The condition of the former chief justice is unaltered since yesterday. He is comfortable and continues to take a moderate amount of nourishment."

Dr. Hagner said Mr. Taft was conscious when he visited him and said good-bye as he left the sick room.

Both doctors regarded Mr. Taft's condition so improved that they decided not to call again until 6:30 P. M. During the past week they have made a mid-afternoon visit.

To those who read of the complication of bodily ills which brought the former president and chief justice down several weeks ago, and knew their portent it has been an amazing thing that he has lived to see another anniversary of his entrance into the White House. Doctors abandoned all hope several days ago, only to see their patient rally, surprisingly.

They do not now predict just when the end will come. They say only that he can not survive.

The former president had shown remarkable stamina against the serious organic troubles which forced him to leave the supreme court bench. The first bulletin of the doctors prescribing his condition told of an acute attack of cystitis, coupled with a "chance," meaning a break-down of the circulatory.

High blood pressure, or arterio sclerosis, had restricted his activities for several years, and an acute development of this ailment further endangered his life at his advanced age of 72. The cystitis was a recurrence in serious form of a trouble from which he had suffered also for some time.

In his struggle against death, the former president has displayed something of that bravado of spirit which he revealed in his public career whenever things went wrong. He accepted his defeat for a second term, philosophically, and left the White House 17 years ago in that mood.

Another March 4—the day of presidents and those who look hopefully toward it—passed through the neighborhood and found the 27th president of the United States still responsive to the visit.

NOVEL DEVICE TO CHECK CONTINUED
DOOR BELL RINGS

Amsterdam, March 4.—(U.P.)—Amsterdam housewives are delighted with a device that has ended the constant ringing of doorbells by successive waves of peddlers, beggars, book agents, rug merchants, lace salesmen and canvassers.

Since "agents keep out" signs have never proved sufficient obstacle to their importunities, many have installed slot machines on their doorbells. You drop a penny and ring the bell. If the visitor is welcome, the penny is returned.

A benevolent government, moreover, has agreed to manufacture slugs for the use of postmen, which are returned to the mailmen by the housewife.

Evans dashed into a downstairs bedroom and returned with two younger children unharmed but he was badly burned in a futile attempt to rescue the others.

Letcher, S. D., March 4.—Billy Bechard, 14, today was the hero of a fire in which his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bechard, perished last night. Running barefooted through deep snow, the boy brought help from a nearby farm to his two little sisters, who were severely burned.

DEATH BED CONFESSION MADE

ST. PAUL GUNMAN HOPES TO FREE AN INNOCENT MAN

St. Paul, March 4.—(U.P.)—The death bed confession of Curley Wheeler, St. Paul gambler and gunman, and his plea that every effort be made to free an innocent man was retold today before the state pardon board.

The widow of the gambler told how her husband had turned to religion in his last moments after being shot down at a local hotel and in an effort to clear his conscience had urged her to do everything in her power to obtain the release from the state prison of George Hughes, known to him as Buck Tooth Hogan.

Her testimony was part of an imposing array of evidence presented at a special meeting of the pardon board today in an effort to obtain liberty for Hughes and Louis Thorwick, who, it is claimed had served nine and eight years respectively for the robbery on July 23, 1921, of the State Bank of Alameda, in which they had no part.

The repetition of the death bed confession and plea was part of an imposing array of evidence presented chiefly by M. F. Kinkaid, assistant United States district attorney, who appeared for the two men and particularly for Thorwick who was a St. Paul hood carrier. Included in the testimony was the presentation of what appeared to be a perfect alibi for Thorwick, proving that at the time of the hold-up he was employed in St. Paul by a plastering firm working on a job. A number of witnesses testified to his presence there directly and statements from others supporting them were read.

UNDERCOVER MAN ABDUCTED AND SLAIN

Pueblo, Colo., March 4.—(U.P.)—Department of justice agents today investigated the death of William E. Pattison, undercover man for the federal prohibition department, who was abducted and slain.

Pattison's body, riddled with bullets, was found on the prairie seven miles southeast of here yesterday after a 24-hour search by possees. The murdered man is believed to have been "taken for a ride" by local bootleggers or persons hired by the liquor interests.

ROBBERS TORTURE FARMER TO GAIN ALLEGED DIAMOND

SEMI-TRANSPARENT GOOSE EGG WAS CRYSTAL VALUED AT $300

NAILS PLUCKED OUT BY BANDITS, SHOTGUN FIRED AT HIS WIFE

Crystal Lake, Ill., March 4.—(U.P.)—The sparkling stone as big as a goose egg that Ed Tessendorf found on his farm and gave to his little son as a plaything was in the possession of thieves today and the farmer and his wife, Emma, were suffering from the tortures the robbers inflicted to learn its hiding place.

While digging a ditch months ago, Tessendorf spaded up the big semi-transparent stone. He gave it to his year-old son, Earl. Later the mother noticed that the stone would cut glass and she persuaded her husband to send it to a jeweler for valuation.

Gossip among neighborhood farmers evolved a story that the stone was a diamond worth $40,000.

Yesterday an automobile stopped in front of the Tessendorf farm home and two men got out. One, tall and slim, walked toward the house. The other met the farmer at the barn. Before Tessendorf could defend himself, he fell under a blow from a pistol butt.

"Where's the $40,000 diamond," the robbers demanded when Tessendorf had revived and had been forced to the house.

"Don't tell them, Ed," his wife warned.

Then for two hours Tessendorf was tortured. His cheeks were seared with glowing cigar ends and his nails were plucked out. Only when one robber fired a shotgun at Mrs. Tessendorf would the farmer reveal his secret.

"Look under the clock on the mantle," he said.

Today the farmer admitted he had sent the stone to a Chicago jeweler. The answer had been: "Very fine crystal, worth probably $300."

LIGGETT IS REITERATING ALL CHARGES MADE

MAGAZINE WRITER STIRS UP HORNET'S NEST IN PROHIBITION CONTROVERSY

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(U.P.)—Walter H. Liggett, magazine writer whose charges of laxity in prohibition enforcement in Kansas stirred up a hornet's nest in the original dry state several weeks ago, reiterated and in some instances amplified his charges in a letter to the house judiciary committee made public by Chairman Graham today.

The letter was read as the wets began their final day of arguments before the committee on proposals to repeal or modify the dry law. The writer sought to answer Attorney General Smith of Kansas, who made charges against him following his testimony before the committee.

Liggett's letter was read just before Rep. Lathrop, democrat, Maryland, leader of the house wet bloc, took the stand for a summation of the wet case in which he demanded action on the Sabath resolution repealing the 18th amendment. He suggested an amendment whereby the repealer would be submitted to special conventions to be called by the various states for that purpose.

Liggett, in answering Smith's charges, stated that instead of having a "long and unsavory reputation in Kansas," as the attorney general stated, he had made only one visit to Kansas before 1929.

A psychiatrist, Dr. Stewart Paton, Baltimore, testified there are more persons in insane asylums than there are students in colleges and universities.

"This country is showing signs of prohibition shock, like shell-shock during the war," he said. "The law has no helped to stimulate sane impulses, as opposed to the insane impulses in all of us."

Washington, March 4.—The prohibitive instinct is the most serious menace of civilization today, a Johns Hopkins university psychiatrist, Dr. Stewart Paton, told the house judiciary committee today in testimony in which he psycho-analyzed dry members of the committee.

Paton blandly referred to enthusiastic drys as "fanatics," and declared that dry abstainers many times have worse secret vices. Questioned by astonished members of the committee, he said science guarantees the authenticity of the old story that a man who does not drink, smoke, chew or curse "must have some very interesting secret vices."

SUPREME COURT OF WISCONSIN DESCRIBES PADLOCK PROCEDURE

Madison, Wis., March 4.—(U.P.)—Padlocks can be snapped on places that have become liquor selling nuisances without the propriety of such an act being debated before a jury, the state supreme court ruled today.

The court's decision terminated the appeal of Peter and Orville Richards, of Cuba City, Wis., from a federal injunction ordering their place closed for liquor law violations. They contended the question should have been submitted to a jury.

Legislatures are empowered to abate such nuisances without jury trial, the court said.

EXECUTIVES OF GRAIN EXCHANGES IN CONFERENCE

YESTERDAY'S PRICE SLUMP IS THOUGHT REACTION TO FEDERAL FARM BOARD

LATTER WILL DISCONTINUE PURCHASES OF GRAIN EXCEPT "AT THE MARKET"

Chicago, March 4.—(U.P.)—Executives of the nation's leading grain exchanges were called into consultation today to prescribe a remedy for the ailing grain market.

Announcement that these "doctors" of the vast marketing industry that transfers wheat, barley, oats and rye from the bins and elevators of the plains and prairies to the giant mills of the cities, would investigate the grain situation up to the present moment, was made after yesterday's price plunges. Officials of the Chicago board of trade said the conference had been planned for some time.

Yesterday's slump was interpreted as a reaction to the change of policy of the federal farm board, which declared it would discontinue purchases of grain except "at the market."

In the Chicago pit, wheat prices yesterday dipped 5 cents under Saturday's figures and the close for cash and May delivery wheat was from 2 3/4 to 4 3/8 cents under Saturday's final prices.

Whether today's conference would develop a panacea for the market ills and put the veterans of the exchanges in the role of saviors of a situation that the governmental agencies were unable to solve to everyone's satisfaction was the question as today's market opened.

Washington, March 4.—A sweeping senate investigation seemed assured today into all factors of the present wheat crisis, including the measures taken by the federal farm board to check it and the activity of the grain trade.

The senate agricultural committee, at a special meeting, was expected to report favorably for senate action the resolution introduced yesterday by Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, which would authorize an inquiry into the board's policies and charges that grain traders have attempted to thwart them.

As no opposition was expressed when the resolution was presented, the senate is expected to approve it. The inquiry will offer an opportunity for those who have criticized the farm board privately and have voiced suspicion of the grain trade publicly to check the conclusion they have reached.

Under terms of the resolution, the committee could go beyond wheat and investigate the board's policies on cotton and other commodities.

Senator Nye, who hitherto has urged farmers to stand by the farm board, expressed dissent with the decision it reached at its recent Chicago conference with the Grain Stabilization Corporation to modify its program and stop buying wheat at the loan rate, which is higher than the present market price.

Other farm bloc senators have expressed similar views, privately. The Nye resolution would empower the agriculture committee to inquire into the following three subjects:

1. Whether the farm board has been fairly interpreting the act under which it was established.

2. Whether the so-called "grain trade" has "conspired" to destroy the effectiveness of the act and embarrass the board or has attempted to discredit the board by depressing the prices of farm commodities.

3. Whether the "grain trade" has been aided in its activities by banking or credit institutions.

If the inquiry is authorized, the committee will call members of the farm board, and possibly Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, as well as representatives of the grain exchanges and commission merchants.

Police Charge Reds in New York Riots

Scenes of wild confusion in City Hall Park, New York City, when police, unable to distinguish between Communist demonstrators and spectators, charged upon the crowd with drawn clubs and wounded several. The disturbance followed upon the visit of a Trade Union Unity League committee to the Mayor's office at City Hall.

Representatives of the league, which is a Communist organization, planned to present a set of resolutions calling for unemployment relief. The melee persisted for more than an hour, thousands of spectators hampering the work of the police and being unwillingly drawn into the disturbance.

The first bulletin of the doctors prescribing his condition told of an acute attack of cystitis, coupled with a "chance" meaning a break-down of the circulatory.

High blood pressure, or arterio sclerosis, had restricted his activities for several years, and an acute development of this ailment further endangered his life at his advanced age of 72. The cystitis was a recurrence in serious form of a trouble from which he had suffered also for some time.

In his struggle against death, the former president has displayed something of that bravado of spirit which he revealed in his public career whenever things went wrong. He accepted his defeat for a second term, philosophically, and left the White House 17 years ago in that mood.

Another March 4—the day of presidents and those who look hopefully toward it—passed through the neighborhood and found the 27th president of the United States still responsive to the visit.

NOVEL DEVICE TO CHECK CONTINUED DOOR BELL RINGS

Amsterdam, March 4.—(U.P.)—Amsterdam housewives are delighted with a device that has ended the constant ringing of doorbells by successive waves of peddlers, beggars, book agents, rug merchants, lace salesmen and canvassers.

Since "agents keep out" signs have never proved sufficient obstacle to their importunities, many have installed slot machines on their doorbells. You drop a penny and ring the bell. If the visitor is welcome, the penny is returned.

A benevolent government, moreover, has agreed to manufacture slugs for the use of postmen, which are returned to the mailmen by the housewife.

DEATH BED CONFESSION MADE

ST. PAUL GUNMAN HOPES TO FREE AN INNOCENT MAN

St. Paul, March 4.—(U.P.)—The death bed confession of Curley Wheeler, St. Paul gambler and gunman, and his plea that every effort be made to free an innocent man was retold today before the state pardon board.

The widow of the gambler told how her husband had turned to religion in his last moments after being shot down at a local hotel and in an effort to clear his conscience had urged her to do everything in her power to obtain the release from the state prison of George Hughes, known to him as Buck Tooth Hogan.

Her testimony was part of an imposing array of evidence presented at a special meeting of the pardon board today in an effort to obtain liberty for Hughes and Louis Thorvick, who, it is claimed had served nine and eight years respectively for the robbery on July 23, 1921, of the State Bank of Almelund, in which they had no part.

The repetition of the death bed confession and plea was part of an imposing array of evidence presented chiefly by M. F. Kinkead, assistant United States district attorney, who appeared for the two men and particularly for Thorvick who was a St. Paul hod carrier. Included in the testimony was the presentation of what appeared to be a perfect alibi for Thorvick, proving that at the time of the hold-up he was employed in St. Paul by a plastering firm working on a job. A number of witnesses testified to his presence there directly and statements from others supporting them were read.

UNDERCOVER MAN ABDUCTED AND SLAIN

Pueblo, Colo., March 4.—(U.P.)—Department of justice agents today investigated the death of William E. Pattison, undercover man for the federal prohibition department, who was abducted and slain.

Pattison's body, riddled with bullets, was found on the prairie seven miles southeast of here yesterday after a 24-hour search by posses. The murdered man is believed to have been "taken for a ride" by local bootleggers or persons hired by the liquor interests.

ROBBERS TORTURE FARMER TO GAIN ALLEGED DIAMOND

SEMI-TRANSPARENT GOOSE EGG WAS CRYSTAL VALUED AT $300

NAILS PLUCKED OUT BY BANDITS, SHOTGUN FIRED AT HIS WIFE

Crystal Lake, Ill., March 4.—(U.P.)—The sparkling stone as big as a goose egg that Ed Tessendorf found on his farm and gave to his little son as a plaything was in the possession of thieves today and the farmer and his wife, Emma, were suffering from the tortures the robbers inflicted to learn its hiding place.

While digging a ditch months ago, Tessendorf spaded up the big semi-transparent stone. He gave it to his year-old son, Earl. Later the mother noticed that the stone would cut glass and she persuaded her husband to send it to a jeweler for valuation.

Gossip among neighborhood farmers evolved a story that the stone was a diamond worth $40,000.

Yesterday an automobile stopped in front of the Tessendorf farm home and two men got out. One, tall and slim, walked toward the house. The other met the farmer at the barn. Before Tessendorf could defend himself, he fell under a blow from a pistol butt.

"Where's the $40,000 diamond," the robbers demanded when Tessendorf had revived and had been forced to the house.

"Don't tell them, Ed," his wife warned.

Then for two hours Tessendorf was tortured. His cheeks were seared with glowing cigar ends and his nails were plucked out. Only when one robber fired a shotgun at Mrs. Tessendorf would the farmer reveal his secret.

"Look under the clock on the mantle," he said.

Today the farmer admitted he had sent the stone to a Chicago jeweler. The answer had been: "Very fine crystal, worth probably $300."

AVERAGE INDIAN WARD IS HEALTHY

Washington, March 4.—(U.P.)—The average Indian ward of the government is in more robust physical condition in point of weight than the average white child, according to statistics cited today by H. B. Peairs, director of Indian education, in answering charges that the government is starving Indian children.

A survey conducted by the Kansas bureau of child research revealed that Indians representing 76 reservation schools were consistently heavier than white children of the same age, he said.

Police Charge Reds in New York Riots

Scenes of wild confusion in City Hall Park, New York City, when police, unable to distinguish between Communist demonstrators and spectators, charged upon the crowd with drawn clubs and wounded several. The disturbance followed upon the visit of a Trade Union Unity League committee to the Mayor's office at City Hall.

Representatives of the league, which is a Communist organization, planned to present a set of resolutions calling for unemployment relief. The melee persisted for more than an hour, thousands of spectators hampering the work of the police and being unwillingly drawn into the disturbance. (International Newsreel)

LIGGETT IS REITERATING ALL CHARGES MADE

MAGAZINE WRITER STIRS UP HORNET'S NEST IN PROHIBITION CONTROVERSY

AMPLIFIES HIS CHARGES IN LETTER TO HOUSE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE

Washington, March 4.—(U.P.)—Walter H. Liggett, magazine writer whose charges of laxity in prohibition enforcement in Kansas stirred up a hornet's nest in the original dry state several weeks ago, reiterated and in some instances amplified his charges in a letter to the house judiciary committee made public by Chairman Graham today.

The letter was read as the wets began their final day of arguments before the committee on proposals to repeal or modify the dry law. The writer sought to answer Attorney General Smith of Kansas, who made charges against him following his testimony before the committee.

Liggett's letter was read just before Rep. Linthicum, democrat, Maryland, leader of the house wet bloc, took the stand for a summation of the wet case in which he demanded action on the 18th amendment. He suggested an amendment whereby the repealer would be submitted to special conventions to be called by the various states for that purpose.

Liggett, in answering Smith's charges, stated that instead of having a "long and unsavory reputation in Kansas," as the attorney general stated, he had made only one visit to Kansas before 1929.

A psychiatrist, Dr. Stewart Paton, Baltimore, testified there are more persons in insane asylums than there are students in colleges and universities.

"This country is showing signs of prohibition-shock, like shell-shock during the war," he said. "The law has no helped to stimulate sane impulses, as opposed to the insane impulses in all of us."

Washington, March 4.—The prohibitive instinct is the most serious menace of civilization today, a Johns Hopkins university psychiatrist, Dr. Stewart Paton, told the house judiciary committee today in testimony in which he psycho-analyzed dry members of the committee.

Paton blandly referred to enthusiastic drys as "fanatics," and declared that total abstinence many times have worse secret vices. Questioned by astonished members of the committee, he said science guarantees the authenticity of the old story that a man who does not drink, smoke, chew or curse "must have some very interesting secret vices."

SUPREME COURT OF WISCONSIN DESCRIBES PADLOCK PROCEDURE

Madison, Wis., March 4.—(U.P.)—Padlocks can be snapped on places that have become liquor selling nuisances without the propriety of such an act being debated before a jury, the state supreme court ruled today.

The court's decision terminated the appeal of Peter and Orville Richards of Cuba City, Wis., from a federal injunction ordering their place closed for liquor law violations. They contended the question should have been submitted to a jury.

Legislatures are empowered to abate such nuisances without jury trial, the court said.

BRAVES JUNGLE WILDS UNHARMED—HIT BY STREETCAR

Chicago, March 4.—(U.P.)—Thomas Alexander Barnes, 48, noted author, lecturer and big game hunter who spent almost half his life among the perils of African wilds and jungle, was near death in a hospital today after a traffic accident.

Barnes was struck by a street car last night and hurled into the path of a taxicab. He was on his way to consult a physician.

EXECUTIVES OF GRAIN EXCHANGES IN CONFERENCE

YESTERDAY'S PRICE SLUMP IS THOUGHT REACTION TO FEDERAL FARM BOARD

LATTER WILL DISCONTINUE PURCHASES OF GRAIN EXCEPT "AT THE MARKET"

Chicago, March 4.—(U.P.)—Executives of the nation's leading grain exchanges were called into consultation today to prescribe a remedy for the ailing grain market.

Announcement that these "doctors" of the vast marketing industry that transfers wheat, barley, oats and rye from the bins and elevators of the plains and prairies to the giant mills of the cities, would investigate the grain situation up to the present moment, was made after yesterday's price plunges. Officials of the Chicago board of trade said the conference had been planned for some time.

Yesterday's slump was interpreted as a reaction to the change of policy of the federal farm board, which declared it would discontinue purchases of grain except "at the market."

In the Chicago pit, wheat prices yesterday dipped 5 cents under Saturday's figures and the close for cash and May delivery wheat was from 2 3/4 to 4 3/8 cents under Saturday's final prices.

Whether today's conference would develop a panacea for the market ills and put the veterans of the exchanges in the role of saviors of a situation that the governmental agencies were unable to solve to everyone's satisfaction was the question as today's market opened.

Washington, March 4.—A sweeping senate investigation seemed assured today into all factors of the present wheat crisis, including the measures taken by the federal farm board to check it and the activity of the grain trade.

The senate agricultural committee, at a special meeting, was expected to report favorably for senate action the resolution introduced yesterday by Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, which would authorize an inquiry into both into the board's policies and charges that grain traders have attempted to thwart them.

As no opposition was expressed when the resolution was presented, the senate is expected to approve it. The inquiry will offer an opportunity for those who have criticized the farm board privately and have voiced suspicion of the grain trade publicly to check the conclusion they have reached.

Under terms of the resolution, the committee could go beyond wheat and investigate the board's policies on cotton and other commodities.

Senator Nye, who hitherto has urged farmers to stand by the farm board, expressed dissent with the decision it reached at its secret Chicago conference with the Grain Stabilization Corporation to modify its program and stop buying wheat at the loan rate, which is higher than the present market price.

Other farm bloc senators have expressed similar views, privately. The Nye resolution would empower the agriculture committee to inquire into the following three subjects:

1. Whether the farm board has been fairly interpreting the act under which it was established.
2. Whether the so-called "grain trade" has "conspired" to destroy the effectiveness of the act and embarrass the board or has attempted to discredit the board by depressing the prices of farm commodities.
3. Whether the "grain trade" has been aided in its activities by banking or credit institutions.

F. GERALD SMITH

TO BE SOLOIST

Pianist to Play for Brainerd Musical Club Saturday Afternoon

AT ELKS' TEMPLE

Program Varied, Containing Old Masters as Well as Own Compositions

Saturday afternoon, March 8, the Brainerd Musical club presents G. Gerald Smith, pianist, at the Elks' Temple. The concert will begin at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Smith comes to Brainerd well recommended. As a child he was unusually gifted in music and gave his first public recital at the early age of 11 years, and at 13 toured the country as a "Boy Prodigy." In addition to his ordinary studies, Mr. Smith has received cultural development and breadth of vision by travel, having visited England, Ireland, Holland, Germany, France, Switzerland, Italy, Greece, Egypt as well as spending nearly two years in Syria, Palestine and other countries of the Levant.

His program will be varied, containing numbers by Liszt, Beethoven, Chopin and Schubert Liszt as well as some of his own compositions. The program will be in five parts, part four containing six numbers of his own composition.

Mr. Smith's interpretation of the masters is said by critics to have the "celestial fire and inspiration," that he is a "master of changing moods," that his music breathes the very spirit of the greatest creators of the entrancing art. For this he has been showered with praise and wherever he has played, the demand has been for his reappearance again and again.

His recital at the Elks' Temple on Saturday afternoon will be one of the real outstanding musical events of the season. All concerts given thus far under the auspices of the Musical club have been greatly enjoyed by all privileged to hear them, and music lovers are assured of a great treat which will never be forgotten in the presentation of F. Gerald Smith, the brilliant American virtuoso.

SHOW "DISRAELI" HERE MARCH 20-21

All Talking Dramatization of Famous
Stage Success Sponsored
by St. Paul's

"Disraeli," Warner Brothers' all talking dramatization of the famous stage success will be presented at the new Paramount theatre here March 20 and 21 sponsored by the St. Paul's Episcopal church for the benefit of the building fund of the church.

In the title role of England's brilliant Prime Minister is Mr. George Arliss, the distinguished actor of the legitimate stage. It was Mr. Arliss, it will be remembered, for whom the play was originally written and in which he subsequently acted for nearly five years, both in New York and in many cities throughout the country. And although Mr. Arliss has appeared in a score of successes, it is generally conceded that his interpretation of Disraeli represents the high mark of his career.

Brilliant, witty and eccentric, Disraeli valued principle above success; a man far removed from the petty jealousies and bigotry of his time. His contemporaries, including his most powerful enemy, Gladstone, were forced to acknowledge the wisdom and power of this man who dreamed of a great British Empire. But above all, he remained always a man of simple tastes, unspoiled by the flattery that crowned his late success. To the last he was a man who loved life with the unflinching intensity that characterized every thing he ever did.

In his present characterization of Disraeli, Mr. Arliss brings the same understanding and sympathy that originally won for him universal acclaim. Truly a great artist of the theatre, Mr. Arliss' performance in this all-talking dramatization of "Disraeli" must rank with the finest acting yet seen and heard on the audible screen. In fact, critics and audiences who have already seen this picture in New York have classed it and the performance of Mr. Arliss as a distinct triumph in the world of talking pictures.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

PEPLUM THEME

Evening frocks of soft flowing silhouette, stressing the long skirt that touches the floor in back and that are much shorter in the front, are of great interest this season. Young girls are wearing this fashion more than ever, and are making their frocks of taffeta or other stiff silks. This frock adopts the peplum theme to accent the slim young waistline, with a band extension approaching the point of the V neck. The long circular skirt dips smartly in the back. The bodice is gathered at the waistline to give the "nipped-in" effect all young girls wear gracefully.

Rev. Herbert J. Anderson, travelling evangelist, who was convicted in district court at Aitkin yesterday of obtaining money for wolf bounties falsely from Aitkin county, was sentenced from one to seven years in Stillwater penitentiary. Sentence was passed by Judge Graham M. Torrance of Bemidji.

Defense attorneys may appeal for a new trial. A stay of sentence was granted until May 3.

Dewey G. Anderson, a brother of the evangelist; Carl Davis, Fleming township clerk, and Mrs. Jessie Clark, the clerk's wife, are at liberty on bonds awaiting trials on charges in connection with the alleged swindle.

The evangelist and his brother, it is alleged, cashed warrants for wolf bounties totaling more than $8,000.

Preserving Newspapers

The paper upon which modern newspapers are printed becomes brittle when exposed to air for a long time. Some libraries have solved the problem of preserving newspaper files by mounting each sheet between two sheets of thin Japanese tissue. This seals the paper from the air, reducing its legibility but slightly and strengthening the page.

SHOW "DISRAELI" HERE MARCH 20-21

All Talking Dramatization of Famous
Stage Success Sponsored
by St. Paul's

"Disraeli," Warner Brothers' all talking dramatization of the famous stage success will be presented at the new Paramount theatre here March 20 and 21 sponsored by the St. Paul's Episcopal church for the benefit of the building fund of the church.

In the title role of England's brilliant Prime Minister is Mr. George Arliss, the distinguished actor of the legitimate stage. It was Mr. Arliss, it will be remembered, for whom the play was originally written and in which he subsequently acted for nearly five years, both in New York and in many cities throughout the country. And although Mr. Arliss has appeared in a score of successes, it is generally conceded that his interpretation of Disraeli represents the high mark of his career.

Brilliant, witty and eccentric, Disraeli valued principle above success; a man far removed from the petty jealousies and bigotry of his time. His contemporaries, including his most powerful enemy, Gladstone, were forced to acknowledge the wisdom and power of this man who dreamed of a great British Empire. But above all, he remained always a man of simple tastes, unspoiled by the flattery that crowned his late success. To the last he was a man who loved life with the unflinching intensity that characterized every thing he ever did.

In his present characterization of Disraeli, Mr. Arliss brings the same understanding and sympathy that originally won for him universal acclaim. Truly a great artist of the theatre, Mr. Arliss' performance in this all-talking dramatization of "Disraeli" must rank with the finest acting yet seen and heard on the audible screen. In fact, critics and audiences who have already seen this picture in New York have classed it and the performance of Mr. Arliss as a distinct triumph in the world of talking pictures.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

PICTORIAL REVIEW

PEPLUM THEME

Evening frocks of soft flowing silhouette, stressing the long skirt that touches the floor in back and that are much shorter in the front, are of great interest this season. Young girls are wearing this fashion more than ever, and are making their frocks of taffeta or other stiff silks. This frock adopts the peplum theme to accent the slim young waistline, with a band extension approaching the point of the V neck. The long circular skirt dips smartly in the back. The bodice is gathered at the waistline to give the "nipped-in" effect all young girls wear gracefully.

Henry Ford's Educational Plans

ANYTHING Henry Ford does is of interest, for he has an original way of doing things. He operates his automobile plant and selling campaigns according to his own ideas. It is now reported that he is to dedicate the rest of his life to education by devoting something like $100,000,000 to building trade schools throughout the country.

Mr. Ford maintains that every boy should learn a trade. He should have something to fall back on, something to keep his mind active, and to keep him out of trouble.

The Philadelphia Record, as quoted, expresses the motor king's ideas in a most understanding way:

"When students come out of school, at eighteen or so, people should want them. They should be in demand, and not find themselves shifting aimlessly without a definite purpose in life.

"The reason we have so much crime and racketeering is because schools do not teach our young men how to fit into the world. Racketeering is nothing but a revolt against the present improper and ineffectual system of teaching.

"If taught properly, every boy upon leaving school could go to an employer and say he was specifically fitted to perform a given task. Now they say, 'I went through high school,' 'I went through college.' That does not mean anything. But if they say they are a machinist, a chemist, or a cabinet-maker, that does mean something.

"I do not know how many schools we shall build, but some of them will be large institutions. All these schools will be self-supporting.

"Academic subjects will be taught in the lower grades, but as soon as the students are ready for it they will be given vocational training. All the arts will be taught. When a student is graduated, he not only will have a good basic education, but a trade that will enable him to immediately put his mind and his energy to practical application. The students will be taught to buy and sell to be traders as well as mechanics."

Prosperity Shared by All

SISLEY HUDDLESTON, the Paris correspondent of the London New Statesman, has just returned from a visit to the United States and like so many foreign visitors before him, says the Living Age, he has tried to put his finger on what it is that distinguishes America from the Old World and he comes to the conclusion that America "has flung overboard our old conception of capital, profits and wages. It was discovered that there are no such 'laws' as were laid down by Adam Smith, Ricardo, John Stuart Mill, and even Karl Marx. It has largely gone back to the idealistic Socialism of William Morris."

Here is the way he diagnoses American prosperity:

"The keynote to American prosperity is simply this—that prosperity is only regarded as prosperity if it is shared by the whole of the people. A nation is not prosperous if its workers cannot buy the goods they themselves produce, if profits merely go into the pockets of a few privileged men.

"It is beside the point to allege that there is plenty of poverty in America, that there are greedy employers and money-grabbing financiers. Doubtless there are. Ideals are not attained in a few years. But I affirm that there is throughout America an entirely new attitude toward social and industrial problems, and that, perhaps for the first time in the history of the world—certainly for the first time in the history of the modern industrial world—there is a general recognition that prosperity depends on the well being and wealth of the worker; that the chief function of the employer is to make it possible for the worker to purchase freely; and that the secret of national success is not large profits and low wages, but low costs and high wages."

Importance of Fur Farming

IN his address delivered at the Minnesota Fur Breeders Association convention in Brainerd, Robert B. Forrest, Assistant Commissioner, Game and Fish Department, called attention to the fact that the United States is the largest raw fur producer of any country in the world, the annual catch in pelts varying from between fifty to sixty million dollars. We market our furs all over the world and we also import raw furs from 55 different countries to the value of something like $140,000,000.

The United States is the largest user of furs in any country of the world. Furs are generally worn by people who can readily afford this luxury and it seems we import twice as many raw furs as we produce, that there should be a higher tariff today on furs.

Few people have any conception of the vast amount of persons interested in the fur industry in Minnesota. Nearly 3,000 fur breeders' licenses were issued by the Minnesota game and fish department in 1929 and less than a score can be called high powered promoters. The rest are either owners of small fur farms or persons who have invested in animals.

Why curb and ruin an industry because it has less than a score of dealers who neglect the civil or moral law?

JUST north of Sartell on No. 27, slightly northeast of the water tank, is a slippery spot in the paving which is said to be fed by a spring. Three fatal and a number of minor accidents have taken place there and something should be done to obliterate the hidden danger, which is not revealed until one's car starts an uncontrollable skid.

BRAINERD has nothing to do regarding setting the scale of admission prices to the basketball tournaments at Staples, Crosby-Ironton and Brainerd. They are set by the district committee and receipts are divided among the 14 teams participating.

THE world wheat situation will be further complicated when the Russian Soviet perfects its system of mass farming with machinery. Large purchases of tractors have been made in America and American bonanza farming methods have been copied.

THE largest attendance in 30 years is expected at Minneapolis at the bi-annual sangerfest of the Norwegian Singers' Association of America, June 12 to 15. Frederick Wick, director, will conduct the performance of the 52 choruses.

MONEY governs a man's conditions. As President Hoover has said, a man with only a dollar must take the first job offered. A stake of $500 gives more time for consideration while $5,000 still better fortifies the owner.

"MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM" SCORES SUCCESS BEFORE AUDIENCE OF 1,000

MISS TORNSTROM COMMENDED FOR ABLE DIRECTION OF PRODUCTION

Shakespeare has been dead for over three hundred years yet for two hours last Saturday evening, over one thousand of Brainerd's population slipped back into the days of this great dramatist, when dainty little elves and fairies pervaded the beautiful, green woods where lovers wandered to and fro enjoying the picturesque scenes of nature. The occasion was the presentation of the senior class play, "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Beautiful harmonious strains flowed forth from behind the scenes and the curtain parted, bringing to view the Duke of Athens (Claude Holden), triumphant in victory with the Queen of the Amazons (Genevieve Jenkins) whom he has conquered in battle. Among the celebrities is Aegaeus, an Athenian noble (David Weber). His daughter Hermia (Margaret Vadnais) has revealed her love for Lysander (Zane Smith) but is denied permission to marry him, because her father believes Demetrius (Clarence Holden) to be the more worthy. She must consent to wed Demetrius or remain single all of her life. She and Lysander decide to flee secretly from Athens and be married. Helena (Alice Lind) is told of their purpose, and in order to win his favor, tells Demetrius whom she loves, but who spurns her. Demetrius, followed by Helena, pursues the lovers, and they meet in a wood where a fairy mischief-maker, Puck (Roger Callahan) serves Oberon, the king of the fairies (Obert Benson). Puck reveals himself as the administrator of a certain magic juice, which when applied to the eyes of mortals causes them to fall madly in love with the "next living thing that they look upon." A drop of this liquid is applied to the eyes of Lysander and Demetrius who, upon awakening, immediately gaze upon "fair" Helena and fall in love with her.

Mechanics Rehearse
Meanwhile, a group of Athenian mechanics meet in the same wood to rehearse a play, which they are preparing to give before the Duke, on his wedding day. The chief comedy of the play lies in the action of these six men, Nick Bottom (Ross Olmsted), Quince (Roger Kleven), Snug (Arthur Lemire), Flute (Adolf Erickson), Snout (Joe Heald), and Starveling (Otto Dahl).

After being bewitched by Puck, Bottom appears with a donkey's head upon his own. The eyes of the beautiful little fairy queen, Titania (Donna Cunningham) have been treated by the same mischievous fairy, and she falls in love with Bottom even in this peculiar condition. Bottom is well cared for by the fairies and elves, who dance about him and their queen. The fairy scenes were very effective, with marvelous costumes and beautiful lighting. The fairies were Betty Mae Koop, Martha Sheets, Elizabeth Hoffman, Natalie Kampmann, Geraldine Boganatoss, and Donna Tryholm. Elves were Beverly Swanson, Ruth Deering, Marilyn Sheets, Betty Nolan, and Elaine Wise.

Happy Ending
In the course of events, Puck administers the juice to the right eyes, and the two pairs of mortals, as well as the king and queen of the fairies, are brought back to their former admirers.

At the wedding of Hippolyta and Theseus, Philostrate (Richard Ebert) introduces the mechanics who give their one-act tragedy in the attendance of several noble lords and ladies, namely: Elwood Anderson, Rose Gudmundson, Gerald Falkenroek, Virginia Cook, Alice Peterson, Leslie Swanson, Betty Robertson, Roland Jenkins, Lucella Campbell and John Hoffbauer. This play was very fascinating, in its odd type of humor, and was admirably acted, excellently portraying all of the witty details designed by Shakespeare.

Acting Excellent
The gorgeous costumes worn by all of the cast, formed a part of the production, well worth seeing in itself. It is almost impossible to overstate the perfection of the play as a whole. The action was graceful; the tones of voices were beautifully blended, and adapted to the extraordinary circumstances; the scenery vividly portrayed the whole scene as one grand, beautiful picture.

The production as a whole was an outstanding one. All the principals are to be commended for their excellent work and while no one of them deserves much more mention than the others, it is certain that Ross Olmsted's portrayal of Bottom will not be forgotten for some time.

After the third act, the Senior Class as a whole expressed its sincere gratitude to Miss Tornstrom for her laborious efforts in coaching the play, and making it such a great success, with a bouquet of flowers, which were presented by Clarence Holden, president of the class.

Miss O'Brien and Miss Flueck are to be commended for their excellent work in training the elves and fairies for their dainty little dances, also Miss Rickard for preparing the octet for its vocal selections, and for directing the orchestra.

Business Handled Well
Business arrangements in connection with the play were capably handled by Elwood Anderson, who was in complete charge. Bernard Foster was the efficient ticket seller for both afternoon and evening.

The ushers at both performances were all Seniors, namely: Hazel Persson, Margaret Meyers, Evelyn Fink, Leona Palmer, Ardelle Persson, Evelyn Grimstead, Jean Duran, Alberta Smith.

Malcolm Lammon was the ticket taker who performed behind the scenes.

The Senior Class wishes to thank Hector Hoenig and D. E. Whitney for the grass used in the presentation, and the Folsom Music Company for the Victrola used for the Mendelssohn "Midsummer Night's Dream" suite.

WARRIORS TO MEET PEQUOT IN FIRST TOURNAMENT GAME

SUB-DISTRICT TOURNAMENTS TO BE HELD AT STAPLES AND CROSBY, MAR. 5 AND 6

Of all school activities other than classwork, the greatest interest of late has been concerning basketball. Now the tournament, which takes in the decisive games of the season, is speedily approaching.

Staples and Crosby tomorrow night and Thursday will be the scenes of the two sub-district contests to determine the finalists who will meet here Friday and Saturday.

The Blue and White journeys to Crosby tomorrow evening to engage with Pequot, and if successful, will play the winner of the Little Falls-Pine River encounter on Thursday night at eight o'clock.

The following is the schedule of games to be run off at the east sub-division at Crosby:

(High school gymnasium) Wednesday, March 5—
4 P. M.—Little Falls vs. Pine River.
8 P. M.—Pequot vs. Brainerd.
9 P. M.—Backus vs. Aitkin.
(Crosby Armory) Thursday, Mar. 6—
8 P. M.—Winner Little Falls-Pine River vs. winner Pequot-Brainerd.
9 P. M.—Winner Backus-Aitkin vs. Crosby-Ironton.

The two winning teams at the Crosby-Ironton tournament will meet the two winning teams from the Staples tournament in the Brainerd high school gymnasium on Friday evening (semi-finals) and on Saturday evening for the championship of the eleventh district basketball.

REBOUNDS

Three thousand is the extreme capacity of the new gym, but if the Warriors don't return victorious from the "sub" tournament it looks like the gym won't reach that figure this year.

Tomorrow night the Warriors play the Pequot at the Crosby high gym at eight o'clock, and from all indications it will be a real "tribal battle."

Bernard Foster Takes Over Eighth Grade Gym

Bernard Foster's gym classes for the eighth grade boys have been progressing very nicely since they were organized not long ago. Bernard should be very capable in showing them what there is to know.

The classes are held the first period in the mornings, four times a week, the first group on Mondays and Wednesdays and the second group on Tuesdays and Thursdays. There is no gym work on Fridays for eighth graders. Various games and a little drill work are required of them. They will get much more drill work when they become high school students.

Bernard, who is a senior and a very important member of the basketball squad, is pressed into service to assist Mr. Kasch and Mr. Melby.

Biology Classes Study With Aid of Balopticon

Students taking biology this year find the study particularly interesting with the aid of the Balopticon lantern. Last Friday in Miss Laipple's classes pictures of animals were flashed on the silver screen adapted for this purpose, each member of the class contributing his part to the discussion by giving special topics concerning the mammals. Illustrations taken from life (timber wolf, red fox, raccoon, polar bear, grizzly bear, badger, muskrat, bison, deer, zebra, hippopotamus, rhinoceros, tapir, American elk) and colored pictures (Zebra, St. Bernard dog, Welsh pony, Iceland pony, Norwegian Dunn pony) constituted the set which was shown.

"Safety first," remarked the detective's son as he donned rubber gloves to raid the jam closet.

YE EDITOR

Happiness! Just what is it? An elusive something which we all strive for but never fully attain. Since our entrance into a beautiful new building dedicated to our needs, we students have been as happy as we poor mortals know how to be, yet that ecstatic feeling that has been ours for a few short months is now being tinged with sadness. Only three months of school left! Can such be true?

We have been told that all seniors hesitate and even dislike to leave the school nest, but it seems to us that sorrow is greater than any of that experienced by preceding classes. We have just become adjusted to a new building with all the joys it provides. We are becoming better acquainted with our fellow students and teachers. We are warmed by gratitude toward those who have made such conditions possible. Yet in three short months we are to be removed from it all.

CAST OF CLASS PLAY FETED AT RANSFORD

Members of the cast of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" the senior class play presentation given Saturday night, were honor guests of seven of their mothers at the Ransford hotel immediately after the performance. Mesdames J. R. Smith, A. C. Weber, T. K. Kleven, J. E. Robertson, J. G. Heald, N. P. Olmsted and A. C. Ebert were the hostesses who planned the enjoyable occasion in conjunction with Mr. Burke, manager of the hotel.

Sentiment to a certain degree prompted the mothers to hold the party since their sons and daughters have been constant friends since their primary days. It would seem fitting that these seniors who have been companions all these years should form the nucleus for the pleasant evening to be spent by all who participated in the play.

Faculty members who were also present included the Misses Tornstrom, O'Brien, Flueck, Herwig and Oerting.

BLUE AND WHITE END SEASON WITH WIN OVER WADENA

WARRIORS COME FROM BEHIND AT HALVE TIME TO WIN,

22 TO 13

Closing the season's play by defeating the Wadena quint, 22-13, put the Brainerd high cagers with a percentage of .625. Although the play was seemingly ragged at times, it is expected that tournament play will be unlike that of previous weeks but instead like the start of the season when the locals won six struggles straight. The record for the season compares favorably with a graph of a business cycle. The period of prosperity, no doubt, was at the start of the season, then the crisis came about mid-season, then the period of depression stepping in to end the season's play. Now if another cycle is about to begin, then the outlook for the tournament is exceedingly bright.

Last Friday evening at the gym, the visiting Wadena squad displayed a zone defense that took the Warriors well into the second quarter to solve. The score at half-time stood 7 to 6 in favor of the Orange and White but they failed to continue to advance their one-point lead, resulting in the mounting of the locals' mark.

Sub-District Declam at Ironton Tomorrow

Zane Smith, Bernice Steinfeldt and Elizabeth Irvine will represent the Brainerd high school at Ironton tomorrow at 10 o'clock in the high school gymnasium. These students will compete for oratorical, dramatic and humorous honors, respectively, in the east sub-division of the 11th district of the State High School League.

The entire student body wishes these contestants success in their venture to the extent that all may be winners in this sub-district elimination.

Mr. Johnson: "I suppose you've been through Algebra?"

Senior: "Yes, but I went through at night and couldn't see the place."

"How kind of you" said the girl, "to bring me these lovely flowers. They are so beautiful and fresh. I believe there is some dew on them yet."

"Yes," stammered the young man in great embarrassment, "but I am going to pay it off tomorrow."

WINNERS TO REPRESENT B. H. S. IN SUB-DISTRICT CONTEST AT CROSBY

After weeks of intensive preparation, the final elimination for local declamation honors took place last Tuesday night in the high school auditorium with the result that Zane Smith, Bernice Steinfeldt and Elizabeth Irvine won first places in the Oratorical, Dramatic and Humorous sections respectively.

Second places were given to Marjorie Forsberg in the dramatic section, Irja Huhtala in the humorous section and Richard Ebert in the oratorical division.

The selections given under the humorous heading were: "Tommy Stearns Takes Care of His Brother" by Elizabeth Irvine, "Peter Projects" by Irja Huhtala, "Biff Perkins' Toboggan Slide" by Howard Zander and "Sammy's Strategy" by Elaine Cook.

In the oratorical section Zane Smith gave "Born Rich," Richard Ebert gave "Target Practice," Stuart Patterson gave "The Conquest of Crime," and Adolph Erickson gave "A Dream."

Bernice Steinfeldt and Marjorie Forsberg presented their selections "Bobby Unwelcome" and "Elizabeth" in deciding the tie which resulted from the last dramatic elimination on February 3.

During the intermissions the Boys' Glee Club and the Girls' Octet sang a number of selections while the judges were deciding on the contest winners.

The judges were Miss Milena Vanasse, Dr. A. K. Cohen, Miss Stendal, Miss Alta Franklin, County Attorney A. J. Sullivan, Rev. J. A. Michaelson and City Attorney D. H. Fullerton.

BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER! THE 1930 ANNUAL!

No Monotony Here

By VERA PERSSON, '27
In a certain district some miles from the city of Brainerd there are only six pupils enrolled. For convenience sake, I shall give them fictitious names. Jean is a seventh grade girl, Josie a sixth-grader, Sammie a fourth and Susie a third-grader, and Paul and Paula are in the first grade.

If you have by any chance formed the opinion that rural children are too shy to voice their ideas, listen to some of these remarks. However, some were made in undertones.

In studying "The Courtship of Miles Standish," when that brave soldier appeared at the wedding, Josie burst out with "Whoopee!" A few minutes later, when Alden brought his white bull for his bride to ride upon, she said lowly, but nevertheless, distinctly, "Oh Boy! This is getting to be as good as a western story!"

Sammie took a scientific turn of mind the other day and wanted to know what keeps the oceans from overflowing their banks. Well, what does?

I asked this question in a word test for civics. Who is Lotus D. Coffman?

"Yes," sighed Jean, "that is just what I should like to know."

This is a current event which was handed in the second week of school. "Bridge as an indoor sport is getting rougher and tougher. Mr.—gave—a black eye because she played a trump on his ace."

Henry Ford's Educational Plans

ANYTHING Henry Ford does is of interest, for he has an original way of doing things. He operates his automobile plant and selling campaigns according to his own ideas. It is now reported that he is to dedicate the rest of his life to education by devoting something like $100,000,000 to building trade schools throughout the country.

Mr. Ford maintains that every boy should learn a trade. He should have something to fall back on, something to keep his mind active, and to keep him out of trouble.

The Philadelphia Record, as quoted, expresses the motor king's ideas in a most understanding way:

"When students come out of school, at eighteen or so, people should want them. They should be in demand, and not find themselves shifting aimlessly without a definite purpose in life.

"The reason we have so much crime and racketeering is because schools do not teach our young men how to fit into the world. Racketeering is nothing but a revolt against the present improper and ineffectual system of teaching.

"If taught properly, every boy upon leaving school could go to an employer and say he was specifically fitted to perform a given task. Now they say, 'I went through high school,' 'I went through college.' That does not mean anything. But if they say they are a machinist, a chemist, or a cabinet-maker, that does mean something.

"I do not know how many schools we shall build, but some of them will be large institutions. All these schools will be self-supporting.

"Academic subjects will be taught in the lower grades, but as soon as the students are ready for it they will be given vocational training. All the arts will be taught. When a student is graduated, he not only will have a good basic education, but a trade that will enable him to immediately put his mind and his energy to practical application. The students will be taught to buy and sell to be traders as well as mechanics."

Prosperity Shared by All

SISLEY HUDDLESTON, the Paris correspondent of the London New Statesman, has just returned from a visit to the United States and like so many foreign visitors before him, says the Living Age, he has tried to put his finger on what it is that distinguishes America from the Old World and he comes to the conclusion that America "has flung overboard our old conception of capital, profits and wages. It was discovered that there are no such 'laws' as were laid down by Adam Smith, Ricardo, John Stuart Mill, and even Karl Marx. It has largely gone back to the idealistic Socialism of William Morris."

Here is the way he diagnoses American prosperity:
"The keynote to American prosperity is simply this—that prosperity is only regarded as prosperity if it is shared by the whole of the people. A nation is not prosperous if its workers cannot buy the goods they themselves produce, if profits merely go into the pockets of a few privileged men.

"It is beside the point to allege that there is plenty of poverty in America, that there are greedy employers and money-grabbing financiers. Doubtless there are. Ideals are not attained in a few years. But I affirm that there is throughout America an entirely new attitude toward social and industrial problems, and that, perhaps for the first time in the history of the world—certainly for the first time in the history of the modern industrial world—there is a general recognition that prosperity depends on the well being and wealth of the worker; that the chief function of the employer is to make it possible for the worker to purchase freely; and that the secret of national success is not large profits and low wages, but low costs and high wages."

Importance of Fur Farming

IN his address delivered at the Minnesota Fur Breeders Association convention in Brainerd, Robert B. Forrest, Assistant Commissioner, Game and Fish Department, called attention to the fact that the United States is the largest raw fur producer of any country in the world, the annual catch in pelts varying from between fifty to sixty million dollars. We market our furs all over the world and we also import raw furs from 55 different countries to the value of something like $140,000,000.

The United States is the largest user of furs in any country of the world. Furs are generally worn by people who can readily afford this luxury and it seems we import twice as many raw furs as we produce, that there should be a higher tariff today on furs.

Few people have any conception of the vast amount of persons interested in the fur industry in Minnesota. Nearly 3,000 fur breeders' licenses were issued by the Minnesota game and fish department in 1929 and less than a score can be called high powered promoters. The rest are either owners of small fur farms or persons who have invested in animals.

Why curb and ruin an industry because it has less than a score of dealers who neglect the civil or moral law?

JUST north of Sartell on No. 27, slightly northeast of the water tank, is a slippery spot in the paving which is said to be fed by a spring. Three fatal and a number of minor accidents have taken place there and something should be done to obliterate the hidden danger, which is not revealed until one's car starts an uncontrollable skid.

BRAINERD has nothing to do regarding setting the scale of admission prices to the basketball tournaments at Staples, Crosby-Ironton and Brainerd. They are set by the district committee and receipts are divided among the 14 teams participating.

THE world wheat situation will be further complicated when the Russian Soviet perfects its system of mass farming with machinery. Large purchases of tractors have been made in America and American bonanza farming methods have been copied.

THE largest attendance in 30 years is expected at Minneapolis at the bi-annual sangerfest of the Norwegian Singers' Association of America, June 12 to 15. Frederick Wick, director, will conduct the performance of the 52 choruses.

MONEY governs a man's conditions. As President Hoover has said, a man with only a dollar must take the first job offered. A stake of $500 gives more time for consideration while $5,000 still better fortifies the owner.

"MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM" SCORES SUCCESS BEFORE AUDIENCE OF 1,000

MISS TORNSTROM COMMENDED FOR ABLE DIRECTION OF PRODUCTION

Shakespeare has been dead for over three hundred years yet for two hours last Saturday evening, over one thousand of Brainerd's population slipped back into the days of this great dramatist, when dainty little elves and fairies pervaded the beautiful, green woods where lovers wandered to and fro enjoying the picturesque scenes of nature. The occasion was the presentation of the senior class play, "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Beautiful harmonious strains flowed forth from behind the scenes and the curtain parted, bringing to view the Duke of Athens (Claude Holden), triumphant in victory with the Queen of the Amazons (Genevieve Jenkins) whom he has conquered in battle. Among the celebrities is Aegeus, an Athenian noble (David Weber). His daughter Hermia (Margaret Vadnais) has revealed her love for Lysander (Zane Smith) but is denied permission to marry him, because her father believes Demetrius (Clarence Holden) to be the more worthy. She must consent to wed Demetrius or remain single all of her life. She and Lysander decide to flee secretly from Athens and be married. Helena (Alice Lind) is told of their purpose, and in order to win his favor, tells Demetrius whom she loves, but who spurns her. Demetrius, followed by Helena, pursues the lovers, and they meet in a wood where a fairy mischief-maker, Puck (Roger Callahan) serves Oberon, the king of the fairies (Obert Benson). Puck reveals himself as the administrator of a certain magic juice, which when applied to the eyes of mortals causes them to fall madly in love with the "next living thing that they look upon." A drop of this liquid is applied to the eyes of Lysander and Demetrius who, upon awakening, immediately gaze upon "fair" Helena and fall in love with her.

Mechanics Rehearse
Meanwhile, a group of Athenian mechanics meet in the same wood to rehearse a play, which they are preparing to give before the Duke, on his wedding day. The chief comedy of the play lies in the action of these six men, Nick Bottom (Ross Olmsted), Quince (Roger Kleven), Snug (Arthur Lemire), Flute (Adolf Erickson), Snout (Joe Heald), and Starveling (Otto Dahl).

After being bewitched by Puck, Bottom appears with a donkey's head upon his own. The eyes of the beautiful little fairy queen, Titania (Donna Cunningham) have been treated by the same mischievous fairy, and she falls in love with Bottom even in this peculiar condition. Bottom is well cared for by the fairies and elves, who danced about him and their queen. The fairy scenes were very effective, with marvelous costumes and beautiful lighting. The fairies were Betty Mae Koop, Martha Sheets, Elizabeth Hoffman, Natalie Kampmann, Geraldine Boganstoss, and Donna Tryholm. Elves were Beverly Swanson, Ruth Deering, Marilyn Sheets, Betty Nolan, and Elaine Wise.

Happy Ending
In the course of events, Puck administers the juice to the right eyes, and the two pairs of mortals, as well as the king and queen of the fairies, are brought back to their former admirers.

At the wedding of Hippolyta and Theseus, Philostrate (Richard Ebert) introduces the mechanics who give their one-act tragedy in the attendance of several noble lords and ladies, namely: Elwood Anderson, Rose Gudmansen, Gerald Falkenreck, Virginia Cook, Alice Peterson, Leslie Swanson, Betty Robertson, Roland Jenkins, Luella Campbell and John Hoffbauer. This play was very fascinating, in its odd type of humor, and was admirably acted, excellently portraying all of the witty details designed by Shakespeare.

Acting Excellent
The gorgeous costumes worn by all of the cast, formed a part of the production, well worth seeing in itself. It is almost impossible to overstate the perfection of the play as a whole. The action was graceful; the tones of voices were beautifully blended, and adapted to the unordinary circumstances; the scenery vividly portrayed the whole scene as one grand, beautiful picture.

The production as a whole was an outstanding one. All the principals are to be commended for their excellent work and while no one of them deserves much more mention than the others, it is certain that Ross Olmsted's portrayal of Bottom will not be forgotten for some time.

After the third act, the Senior Class as a whole expressed its sincere gratitude to Miss Tornstrom for her laborious efforts in coaching the play, and making it such a great success, with a bouquet of flowers, which were presented by Clarence Holden, president of the class.

Miss O'Brien and Miss Flueck are to be commended for their excellent work in training the elves and fairies for their dainty little dances, also Miss Rickard for preparing the octet for its vocal selections, and for directing the orchestra.

Business Handled Well
Business arrangements in connection with the play were capably handled by Elwood Anderson, who was in complete charge. Bernard Foster was the efficient ticket seller for both afternoon and evening.

The ushers at both performances were all seniors, namely: Hazel Persson, Margaret Meyers, Evelyn Fink, Lorraine Palmer, Ardele Persson, Evelyn Callahan, and Burton, Alberta Smith.

Malcolm Lammon was the pater who performed behind the scenes.

The Senior Class wishes to thank Hector Hoenig and D. E. Whitney for the grass used in the presentation, and the Folsom Music Company for the Victrola used for the Mendelssohn "Midsummer Night's Dream" suite.

WARRIORS TO MEET PEQUOT IN FIRST TOURNAMENT GAME

SUB-DISTRICT TOURNAMENTS TO BE HELD AT STAPLES AND CROSBY, MAR. 5 AND 6

Of all school activities other than classwork, the greatest interest of late has been concerning basketball. Now the tournament, which takes in the decisive games of the season, is speedily approaching.

Staples and Crosby tomorrow night and Thursday will be the scenes of the two sub-district contests to determine the finalists who will meet here Friday and Saturday.

The Blue and White journeys to Crosby tomorrow evening to engage with Pequot, and if successful, will play the winner of the Little Falls-Pine River encounter on Thursday night at eight o'clock.

The following is the schedule of games to be run off at the east sub-division at Crosby:

(High school gymnasium) Wednesday, March 5—
4 P. M.—Little Falls vs. Pine River.
8 P. M.—Pequot vs. Brainerd.
9 P. M.—Backus vs. Aitkin.
(Crosby Armory) Thursday, Mar. 6—
8 P. M.—Winner Little Falls-Pine River vs. winner Pequot-Brainerd.
9 P. M.—Winner Backus-Aitkin vs. Crosby-Ironton.

The two winning teams at the Crosby-Ironton tournament will meet the two winning teams from the Staples tournament in the Brainerd high school gymnasium on Friday evening (semi-finals) and on Saturday evening for the championship of the eleventh district basketball.

REBOUNDS

Three thousand is the extreme capacity of the new gym, but if the Warriors don't return victorious from the "sub" tournament it looks like the gym won't reach that figure this year.

Tomorrow night the Warriors play the Pequot Chiefs at the Crosby high gym at eight o'clock, and from all indications it will be a real "tribal battle."

Bernard Foster Takes Over Eighth Grade Gym

Bernard Foster's gym classes for the eighth grade boys have been progressing very nicely since they were organized not long ago. Bernard should be very capable in showing them what there is to know.

The classes are held the first period in the mornings, four times a week, the first group on Mondays and Wednesdays and the second group on Tuesdays and Thursdays. There is no gym work on Fridays for eighth graders. Various games and a little drill work are required of them. They will get much more drill work when they become high school students.

Bernard, who is a senior and a very important member of the basketball squad, is pressed into service to assist Mr. Kaach and Mr. Melby.

Biology Classes Study With Aid of Balopticon

Students taking biology this year find the study particularly interesting with the aid of the Balopticon lantern. Last Friday in Miss Laipple's classes pictures of animals were flashed on the silver screen adapted for this purpose, each member of the class contributing his part to the discussion by giving special topics concerning the mammals. Illustrations taken from life (timber wolf, red fox, raccoon, polar bear, grizzly bear, badger, muskrat, bison, deer, zebra, hippopotamus, rhinoceros, tapir, American elk) and colored pictures (Zebra, St. Bernard dog, Welsh pony, Iceland pony, Norwegian Dunn pony) constituted the set which was shown.

"Safety first," remarked the detective's son as he donned rubber gloves to raid the jam closet.

YE EDITOR

Happiness! Just what is it? An elusive something which we all strive for but never fully attain. Since our entrance into a beautiful new building dedicated to our needs, we students know how to be, yet that ecstatic feeling that has been ours for a few short months is now being tinged with sadness. Only three months of school left! Can such be true?

We have been told that all seniors hesitate and even dislike to leave the school nest, but it seems to us that sorrow is greater than any of that experienced by preceding classes. We have just become adjusted to a new building with all the joys it provides. We are becoming better acquainted with our fellow students and teachers. We are warmed by gratitude toward those who have made such conditions possible. Yet in three short months we are to be removed from it all.

Thus are the ways of life. It behooves us to make the most of our time remaining here that in years to come we may say as we sigh reminiscently, "Those were happy days indeed."

In the preliminary fray, the Brainerd seconds came out on top of a 24 to 20 score over Pine River high. Patterson, Marshall, Garvey, Gabeau, and Larson carried the brunt of the battle and were aided by Mayo, Templeton, White and Dryburgh.

Sub-District Declam at Ironton Tomorrow

Zane Smith, Bernice Steinfeldt and Elizabeth Irvine will represent the Brainerd high school at Ironton tomorrow at 10 o'clock in the high school gymnasium. These students will compete for oratorical, dramatic and humorous honors, respectively, in the east sub-division of the 11th district of the State High School league. The entire student body wishes these contestants success in their venture to the extent that all may be winners in this sub-district elimination.

Mr. Johnson: "I suppose you've been through Algebra?"
Senior: "Yes, but I went through at night and couldn't see the place."

"How kind of you" said the girl, "to bring me these lovely flowers. They are so beautiful and fresh. I believe there is some dew on them yet."

"Yes," stammered the young man in great embarrassment, "but I am going to pay it off tomorrow."

WINNERS TO REPRESENT B. H. S. IN SUB-DISTRICT CONTEST AT CROSBY

After weeks of intensive preparation, the final elimination for local declamation honors took place last Tuesday night in the high school auditorium with the result that Zane Smith, Bernice Steinfeldt and Elizabeth Irvine won first places in the Oratorical, Dramatic and Humorous sections respectively.

Second places were given to Marjorie Forsberg in the dramatic section, Irja Huhtala in the humorous section and Richard Ebert in the oratorical division.

The selections given under the humorous heading were: "Tommy Stearns Takes Care of His Brother" by Elizabeth Irvine, "Pater Projects" by Irja Huhtala, "Biff Perkins' Toboggan Slide" by Howard Zander and "Sammy's Strategy" by Elaine Cook.

In the oratorical section Zane Smith gave "Born Rich," Richard Ebert gave "Target Practice," Stuart Patterson gave "The Conquest of Crime," and Adolph Erickson gave "A Dream."

Bernice Steinfeldt and Marjorie Forsberg presented their selections "Bobby Unwelcome" and "Elizabeth" in deciding the tie which resulted from the last dramatic elimination on February 3.

During the intermissions the Boys' Glee Club and the Girls' Octet sang a number of selections while the judges were deciding on the contest winners.

The judges were Miss Milena Vanasek, Dr. A. K. Cohen, Miss Stendal, Miss Alta Franklin, County Attorney A. J. Sullivan, Rev. J. A. Michaelson and City Attorney D. H. Fullerton.

BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER! THE 1930 ANNUAL!

No Monotony Here

By VERA PERSSON, '27
In a certain district some miles from the city of Brainerd there are only six pupils enrolled. For convenience sake, I shall give them fictitious names. Jean is a seventh grade girl, Josie a sixth-grader, Sammie a fourth—and Susie a third-grader, and Paul and Paula are in the first grade.

If you have by any chance formed the opinion that rural children are too shy to voice their ideas, listen to some of these remarks. However, some were made in undertones.

In studying "The Courtship of Miles Standish," when that brave soldier appeared at the wedding, Josie burst out with "Whoopee!" A few minutes later, when Alden brought his white bull for his bride to ride upon, she said lowly, but nevertheless, distinctly, "Oh Boy! This is getting to be as good as a western story!"

Sammie took a scientific turn of mind the other day and wanted to know what keeps the oceans from overflowing their banks. Well, what does?

I asked this question in a word test for civics. Who is Lotus D. Coffman?

"Yes," sighed Jean, "that is just what I should like to know."

This is a current event which was handed in the second week of school. "Bridge as an indoor sport is getting rougher and tougher. Mr.—gave a black eye because she played a trump on his ace."

When Valentine posters were made, one student put a pair of very dark rimmed spectacles on a very blonde girl, when none at all were needed. The effect was not so bad, though it could have been considerably better.

One day I borrowed Josie's ruler. Absently, I laid a pencil on her desk in its place. After school that evening she informed me that I was like the absent minded professor who was eating pancakes. His back itched, so he poured the syrup down his back and scratched his pancake.

And this is only a small part of one day's work.

YOUR PICTURE IS IN THE 1930 BRAINONIAN!

Crawford—So you can't understand why your boy in college flunked in all the foreign languages?

Crabshaw—No, it's a mystery to me. He picked up all the college yells in no time.

Gerald Halvorson, senior, who has been quite ill with inflammatory rheumatism the last three weeks returned to school Monday. His classmates welcome his return and hope that he has fully recovered.

Much individuality has been expressed by the pupils in Miss Farranpork's general science classes in the making of posters illustrating the varieties of wood. Caroline Olson, David Rundquist, Vera Congdon, Gerald Olson and Robert Thompson are among those whose work was of considerable merit.

As a medium of advertising for the Senior play, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," nothing finer was shown than the posters displayed by Miss True's art class. Those who viewed the posters found them to be works of art as well as excellent advertisements.

TROTTERS DROP ST. CLOUD CO. I IN SEASON'S FINAL 33-17

TEAMWORK MARKS SEVENTH STRAIGHT WIN FOR RUSSELLS

LA COURSE AND MARLIN STAR AND WISE ENTERTAINS FANS IN USUAL STYLE

PLAY LAST GAME BEFORE POOR CROWD; LEGION AUXILIARY BAND FURNISHES MUSIC

Russell's Globe Trotters closed their season at the high school gym last night with a well earned victory over the fast St. Cloud Co. I quintet by a score of 33-17. The Trotters were out in front all the way and there never seemed to be any doubt of the outcome. The team working like a well-oiled machine, presenting teamwork that was pretty to watch.

The game was played before a poor crowd but the American Legion Auxiliary band enlivened things somewhat with their music. One thing that has been hard to understand all season is the poor attendance that has been marking the home games of the Trotters. Those boys play by far better, and more consistent ball, than any other quintet in the city and yet they fail to draw well as a gate attraction. Last evening's tilt marked the seventh straight win of the Trotters, many of them over the best independent teams in the district.

LaCourse was unquestionably the star of last night's contest, the big forward being in the thick of the scrap at all times. Besides good defensive work, he scored six field goals and a couple of free throws. Wise, as usual, delighted the spectators, and Marlin contributed four field goals to the Trotter total.

First Quarter

On the opening play of the game, Wise dribbled under the basket but missed. St. Cloud recovered the ball but missed several attempts from far out on the floor. Marlin dribbled under the St. Cloud basket and shot to score the first basket of the game. A moment later Wise passed to LaCourse under the St. Cloud basket and the big forward dropped one in to boost the Trotter total to four.

LaCourse fouled Behnink and the St. Cloud forward dropped the ball through the hoop for the first Granite City marker. Marlin fouled Denny, but the St. Cloud floor guard failed to make good from the free throw line.

Wise brought the fans to their feet by taking the ball away from Denny close under the Trotter goal and dribbling in to drop in a basket from close range. Marlin fouled Behnink, and the free throw dropped through the net, but the St. Cloud forward stepped over the mark and the point failed to count.

Allen fouled Nelson but the blonde Trotter guard failed to connect on the free throw. LaCourse scored a field goal from close in under the basket and Wise duplicated the basket a moment later to increase the Trotter lead to 10-1. Allen hit from far out on the floor for the first St. Cloud field goal. Behnink fouled Wise and Wise made the free throw good. Gasser fouled Heikkinen as the quarter ended. Heikkinen dropped the ball through the hoop to give the Trotters a 12-3 lead at the quarter.

Second Quarter

Manager Peterson sent in Gabiou and Fuller to relieve Nelson and Heikkinen at the guard positions. Barrett opened the second period by dropping in a basket from close range. Denny missed a set-up shot. Barrett fouled LaCourse and he made the shot good. The St. Cloud center fouled Wise and Frankie missed both attempts.

Both teams were playing a close man to man defense now and the ball traveled up and down the floor with both teams seemingly unable to score. St. Cloud tried to break up the Brainerd defense by hitting from long range, but their shots were hurried and they failed to connect. The Trotters were trying to work the ball under the St. Cloud basket, and although they exhibited some beautiful floor work, they were missing their shots.

Near the end of the quarter Gabiou dribbled under the St. Cloud basket and dropped one in. Allen fouled Fuller and the big back-guard missed his first attempt but sank the second to put the Trotters out in front by a score of 16-5 as the half ended.

Third Quarter

Allen hit on a difficult shot from the side to open the scoring after the intermission. Wise retaliated with a Trotter goal from close under the basket. Referee Michie called a double foul on Gabiou and Denny. The little Trotter floor guard missed his shot but the Granite City boy hit to make the score 18-8.

Schiedinger fouled Wise, but the Brainerd forward missed his free throw. A moment later Barrett sank a set-up shot after a long pass. He was standing unguarded directly under the Trotter basket.

LaCourse came in fast under the basket to score. He was fouled as he made the shot. The basket counted, but he missed the first free throw and scored the second.

Marlin scored two field goals in rapid succession. The first was on a rebound off the bankboard and the second was another close-in shot on a pass from Wise. Barrett committed his fourth personal foul and left the game. Wise missed the free throw. Brainerd was bombarding the basket from long range as the quarter ended. Score: Trotters 25, St. Cloud 10.

Fourth Quarter

Fuller passed to Marlin, who scored from close under the basket. LaCourse followed with another close-in shot to give the Trotters a 19-point lead. Fuller fouled Allen and the St. Cloud

BOILERMAKERS NEVER BEATEN DURING THE FOOTBALL SEASON

BUT ONE GAME LEFT FOR PURDUE TO MAKE SAME MARK IN BASKETBALL

By BERT DEMBY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, March 4.—Already having clinched both the football and basketball western conference championships, Purdue University today was determined to set a Big Ten record by producing undefeated gridiron and cage teams.

Never beaten during the football season, the Boilmakers have but one game between them and a perfect basketball record. Clearly the class of the conference, the football team sailed through without a defeat and it appears almost certain now that the basketball team will do the same.

Last night the Purdue team, led by Harmsen, Murphy and Wooden—perhaps as great an offense as the conference ever has had—defeated Michigan, 44-28. That victory clinched the conference basketball title, but the Boilmakers still must play one more game to own an undefeated record, and match the mark set by the football team.

The only thing that stands between them and the undefeated record is a game with Chicago next Saturday night and since Chicago is a winner of only one conference game this season, it appears that the Lafayette school will win two Big Ten titles with perfect records.

When Michigan, co-sharers of the Big Ten title last year, lost last night it marked Purdue's ninth consecutive league win.

Evidence of Purdue's powerful offense was shown last night when the Boilmakers won the game in the first 15 minutes of play. So great was the Purdue offense that Michigan was trailing 12-27 at the half. The Wolverines played better in the second period and held the Boilmakers down but the damage had been done.

Speed characterized last night's basketball game when the Globe Trotters and St. Cloud teams met. Several referred to the Globe Trotters as the "Thundering Herd" the way they stampeded the St. Cloud boys.

The reds and the blues looked good on the floor as they entered last evening. The St. Cloud men, however, seemed smaller than the Brainerd men. The beginning of the game looked a bit blue for the Brainerd team, but at that they made the first basket. As usual, Wise was everywhere and always getting the ball. Several of the boys were on the floor almost as much as on their feet.

The second quarter was very exciting—reminding one of a stampede. All moved quickly and the crowd was tense watching the ball. All the ladies around were very interested in knowing who one St. Cloud boy with the long black hair was.

Several suggestions were made to enable the players to make more baskets, among them being to lower the baskets a foot or two. Several swan dives were made by the Brainerd boys over the heads of the opposing team which brought cheers from the crowd.

All in all it was a fast, peppy and exciting game from beginning to finish, the crowd was enthusiastic, the ump kept his whistle busy and all Brainerd fans were pleased with the record made by the home boys.

Peppy musical numbers were given by the American Legion Auxiliary band.

Brainerd high school faces a hard fight in its attempt to win sectional basketball honors this week.

Four tough games are in store for the Brainerd team, anyone of which they might lose.

Tomorrow evening the Brainerd team meets Pequot at 8 o'clock while Backus plays Aitkin at 9 o'clock. Brainerd and Aitkin are slated to survive the first round.

The really tough first game will come Thursday evening when Brainerd is predicted to meet Little Falls at 8 P. M. Crosby will engage in its first game of the sub-district that evening at Crosby by playing the winner of the Aitkin-Backus game at 9 o'clock.

If Brainerd survives the sub-district tournament at Crosby, more troubles arise in the district tournament here Friday and Saturday evenings.

Should Brainerd reach the district tournament the team will in all probability meet Staples, which with Wadena, is slated to survive the sub-district at Staples.

Crosby will face but two teams before the finals. It is conceded to carry these teams, Aitkin and Wadena, and enter the finals Saturday evening.

Little Falls and Staples will present strong tournament teams, sufficient to cause worry to the best teams in the district.

Many "Black Fridays" in Financial Circles

"Black Friday" does not refer to a particular date, as often supposed, but is the name given to several Fridays on which financial panics have occurred.

Apparently the term was first applied to the Friday in December, 1745, when the news was received in London that Charles Edward Stuart, the Young Pretender, had reached Derby, only ten days' march from the capital. A financial panic resulted immediately. "Black Friday" was probably suggested by analogy with Black Monday, an old name for the Monday following Easter. The term "Black Friday" was revived in England for May 11, 1860, when a panic followed the failure of the London firm of Overend, Gurney & Co. In the United States the term is applied to September 24, 1899, when a panic occurred as the result of Jay Gould's efforts to corner the gold market in New York, and to September 19, 1873, when a panic followed the failure of the banking firm of Jay Cook & Co.—Pathfinder Magazine.

WHEN pondering the past over the pennant chances of the Philadelphia National League baseball team, it has been customary to say, "They can't do worse than they did last year." Truly, throughout the past decade, 1929 excepted, the Phils have been sharing the collar with the Braves, the Quakers being in last place more frequently.

But now, with a radical change in the team, Burt Shotton, astute manager of the Phils, has acquired one of the most potential machines in the older circuit. The smart trade which secured "Lefty" O'Doul from the Giants, the acquisition and development of a relief hurler, Koupol made good immediately as a starting pitcher with the Phils.

Still another hurler expected to boost Philly stock is the great Ol' Grover Alexander, secured from the Cardinals. "Alec" may still fool opposing sluggers, and, if used in the relief role, he should be of invaluable aid to the success of the Phils. Earl Collard, from Shreveport, together with Bengie Willoughby, Smythe and Sweetland of last year's staff, complete a formidable pitching staff.

Tommy Thevenow is said to be fully recovered from his auto accident injuries. If that is so, Shotton should be delighted. For, with hard-hitting players like O'Doul, Klein, Hurst and Whitney, aided by a smooth working infield and improved pitching staff, the Phils loom already as the "dark horse" of this year's National League race.

If Klein, O'Doul & Co. hit on all sixes or eights this season, "Chief" Shotton's artillery will soon let the whole baseball world know that they're more than Quakers. With such slugging power, the Phils should be earthquakes!

CHUCK KLEIN — THE PHILLIES' HOME RUN KING — SHOTTON'S SLUGGING GANG MAY DO A LOT OF DAMAGE THIS SEASON — IF THEIR HURLERS HOLD UP!

BURNLEY
THANKS TO
JOE G. —

Will he help the Phils?

WHEN pondering in the past over the pennant chances of the Philadelphia National League baseball team, it has been customary to say, "They can't do worse than they did last year." Truly, throughout the past decade, 1929 excepted, the Phils have been sharing the cellar with the Braves, the Quakers being in last place more frequently.

But now, with a radical change in the team, Burt Shotton, astute manager of the Phils, has acquired one of the most potential machines in the older circuit. The smart trade which secured "Lefty" O'Doul from the Giants, the acquisition and development of Chuck Klein and other coups have added great power to a hard hitting team.

Joe Greenberg, New York baseball seer, submitted the following facts which indicate the Phils' ability and strengthen their chances for the 1930 pennant:

1—The Phils led both leagues in 1929 batting with the high team average of .309.

2—The Phils hit more home runs than any other team in the majors last season.

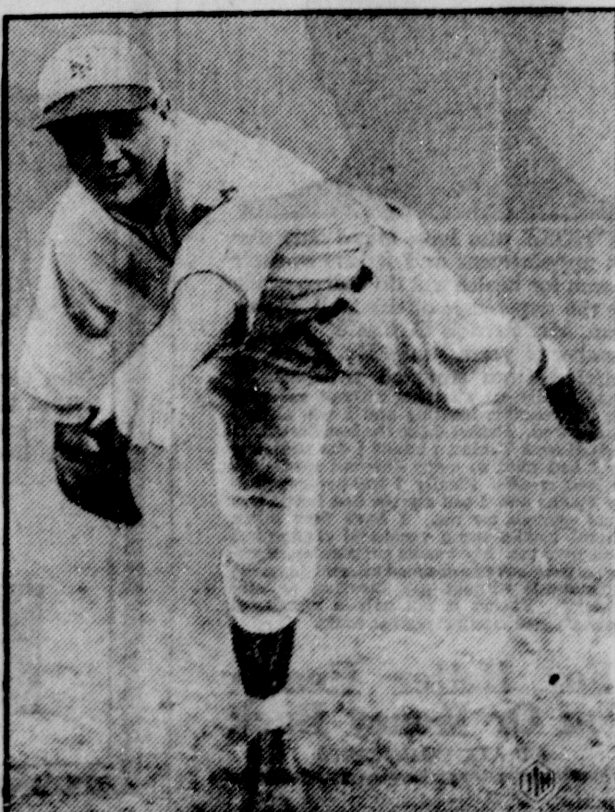

3—Their won-and-lost percentage in the second half of the season was eighty points higher than in the first... a greater improvement than that of any other team in the National League.

For many years the weakest spot on the team was the pitching staff. It was a real blow to the Phils when the young and capable Frank Ulrich died last year. Shotton then made a good move by getting Lou Koupal from Brooklyn. Erratic with the Robins as a relief hurler, Koupal made good immediately as a starting pitcher with the Phils.

Still another hurler expected to boost Philly stock is the great Ol' Grover Alexander, secured from the Cardinals. "Alec" may still

History

The idea that the history of a nation is the story of the lives of its greatest men has been expressed by a number of authors. Carlyle writing "On History" says "History is the essence of innumerable biographies." And Emerson: "There is properly no history, only biography."

EXTREMES

Manager F. N. Shepherd of the American Bankers' association was talking at a dinner in New York about a shorn lamb of the stock market.

"Oh, well, he took his shearing in good part," Mr. Shepherd said. "His last words as he left the street for good and all were:

"Extremes meet, gentlemen. I have burnt my fingers and it's given me cold feet."

Full Service Required

The life saving crew had just pulled the man's wife out of the water. She was unconscious, rescued while going down for the third time, and the husband was almost distracted.

"Shall we apply artificial resuscitation?" asked one of the rescuers.

"No!" bellowed the man. "She's all I have, and I want the real thing!"

Convicts Himself

"I despise hypocrites. Take Smithson, for example; he's the biggest hypocrite on earth."

"But you appear to be his best friend."

"Oh, yes; I try to appear friendly toward him. It pays better in the end."

Coerced

"Oh, so Mainwaring is going to be married?"

"Yes, a film actress!"

"Indeed? Couldn't live without her, I suppose?"

"No—well, not without a breach of promise action, anyhow!"

Readily Explained

"Is your wife literary?"

"I dunno as she is."

"I see she has a fine set of Shakespear."

"She got that with a reducing machine."

Tough Duck

"Excuse me, madam, but—er—you haven't paid for that duck you 'ad some time back."

"No, my husband sprained his wrist so badly carving it that he has been unable to write out your check."

SILVER-LINED CLOUD

"In money matters he's under a cloud they say."

"Well, he's lined it with silver, so nobody cares."

Cheap Meal

"How were the cats?" asked hubby of his better half just back from a dinner party at the new neighbors.

"Well, it was the sort of meal you look for a paper napkin with."

Job Must Be Done

Would-Be-Suicide—Don't rescue me. I want to die.

Swimmer—Well, you'll have to postpone it. I want a life-saving medal.

Daughter—Not quite. He's not coming until eight o'clock.

FROM old and young they come, letters overflowing with words of praise and gratitude telling of wonderful, almost unbelievable relief they received from this matchless medicine. Local people, many of whom you know, are highly endorsing Tanlac. Take for instance, one delighted woman, Mrs. Minnie O. Somers writes, "About 10 years ago my strength started to slip away. Nervousness, headaches and various aches and pains made me wretched. Bileousness added to my listlessness. Food soured and caused distressing heartburn and gas. But it was just as easy as smiling away my troubles when I took Tanlac. Tanlac gave me a vigorous appetite, smoothed out my digestion so my food gave me right nourishment and strength. I have lots of energy now to see me thru busy day. If other sufferers would only try Tanlac they would soon be at their best."

THOSE who have found only disappointment and failure in their search for health will do well to profit by the experience of this well-known man, Mr. Patrick O. Keefe. "For a number of years," says Mr. Keefe, "I suffered from stomach troubles. I could hardly eat anything without suffering gas and terrible bloating and I was always constipated. I heard about the benefits others derived from Tanlac. I admit I was skeptical for I had tried so many different medicines without results. Finally I was persuaded to try Tanlac and I will say the first bottle was proof enough for me. I have now taken several bottles and a wonderful change has come over me. My bowels are regular, digestive organs have been toned up, and I can eat three meals without gas, bloating or any misery." Tanlac is not only a wonderful stomach medicine but a great tonic.

Council Restricts City Employees on Full Time From Doing Other Work

FIRE DEPARTMENT HIT

Aldermen of Third Ward Authorized to Dispose of Hose House No. 3 in Own Way

City employees on full time will not be permitted to engage in any work outside their duties, the city council ruled at last evening's council meeting.

The resolution was adopted on motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritari and Elmer Lee and was instituted following a complaint that one of the truck drivers in the Brainerd fire department was engaged in work other than that connected with the department.

The restriction does not affect policemen from policing dances while on duty as this comes within their line of duty.

The restriction was adopted to prevent any employee taking work that might be done by someone out of employment.

Fire Chief Frank Fuller spoke frankly in defense of his department. He said he could not see why the fire department should be penalized by the council. He explained to the members of the council that his men were on shifts of 8 hours each and only he was on duty to be called the 24 hours. He could see no harm in men earning a little more money outside of their daily occupation.

Milk and cream licenses as approved by the dairy inspector were granted the following: S. A. Stanley, Nestor Freeman, Mrs. J. LaCourse, Dan G. Nichols.

The request of Judge J. H. Warner for the installation of a telephone in his room in the city hall the expense to be paid by the city was on motion laid on the table.

Dean White submitted plans for the remodeling of the front of the building at 616 Laurel street, the Alderman-Maghan Co. store. The plans were approved and the permit ordered.

Receipts and disbursements for the month of February in the water and light department were as follows: receipts, $17,155.06; disbursements, $311,675.05.

The monthly report of the public library board follows:

On hand, Feb. 1 $813.32

Fines and rentals 53.58

Total $866.90

Total bills 301.01

On hand, March 1 $565.89

Dr. R. A. Hallquist, city dairy inspector, was named delegate to attend the annual convention of the State Health and Dairy Inspectors to be held at University Farm Campus, St. Paul, March 17, 18, and 19.

The matter of the disposition of the building known as Hose House No. 3 was left in the hands of the aldermen of the third ward to do as they see fit. The city engineer was empowered to dismantle the bell tower in connection with the building.

The city property committee was authorized to purchase new shades for the windows upstairs in the city hall.

Alderman W. J. Lyonais reported that the building was in fine shape, that the painting had been completed, and that the aldermen would be able to meet in the new council chambers on the second floor of the building at the next meeting.

SPRING FROLIC PROVES SUCCESS

Given Last Evening by Lincoln and Riverside P. T. A.'s

OVER $200 REALIZED

800 Adults and Children Were There to Make Merry

The early Spring Frolic given last evening at the Lincoln school by the Lincoln and Riverside P. T. A.'s was one of the most successful entertainments ever put on. The entertainments were put on to raise money for the P. T. A. and the committee in charge were highly pleased over the results, over $200 being realized. Over 800 adults and children were there to make merry.

The hits of the evening without a doubt were the programs given by the Riverside men and ladies. The Red Devil Minstrels, with Art Hagberg as "interloper," gave two programs. Mrs. Louis Johnson gave as a specialty before the act "Holy Yumping Yiminy." Mrs. Oscar Orman was accompanist for the Minstrels, who were dressed in red, yellow and black outfits. They proved royal entertainers, reviving the old time dance tunes also demonstrating old time dance steps and jigs. They opened their program with a vocal duet "Old Black Joe," followed by the recitation "Do You Remember." Other numbers included violin solos, harmonica trios, vocal solos and duets, band selections and mandolin and violin duets. "Whitey" as the toe dancer was exceptionally good. "Snowball," gave a recitation "I Hate to Be a Kicker" and "Spark Plug" sang "It Ain't Gonna Rain No Mo." These numbers were interspersed with jokes. "Bing" the junior member of the minstrels was heartily applauded in "Coon Duxology." "Bing" was played by Edward Orman, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Orman. Other members in the cast were O. A. Orman, A. E. Falconer, Fred Rosenkranz, Charles Clark, Tom Wheeler, Elmer Meyer, Edward Meyer, Oscar Severson, Donald Spencer, Lawrence Kepper, Carl Johnson, Mark Patterson, J. W. Spencer, Harold Betts, Luke Spenger, Art G. Lively and R. C. Falconer.

"Fun in a Photograph Gallery" was put on by 21 West Brainerd ladies showing the troubles of a professional photographer and the intricacies of the modern camera. Among the "pictures" taken were a group of girls representing the different days of the week, a widow woman having her "picture taken" with a vase given her by her third husband; a beautiful Swedish girl carrying a bouquet of flowers who wished to send her photograph to her friend "Ole in North Dakota"; a mother with an unruly son; a bride and groom having their wedding picture taken in which the bride's anxiety was to look happy, while the groom wanted "something cheap"; grandmother and grandchild; a dude; the fellow photographer, and the twins who wanted their picture to show brown eyes and dimples, although they had neither. Specialties in this number were also given by Mrs. Louis Johnson.

The Beauty Parlor, in charge of Miss Millie Germaine with four competent operators, proved to be one of the busiest places in the school. It was patronized almost entirely by the men and boys, and bright red cheeks, red noses, full grown mustaches, Charlie Chaplin's and long curved mustaches as well as goatees were in evidence everywhere. One box of powder, two eyebrow pencils and much lipstick were used.

The Fish Pond was in charge of Mrs. Frank Little and Mrs. George Lucas with a committee assisting. Candy and popcorn balls were also on sale. Those in charge of the candy booths were Mrs. Iver Hagen, Mrs. Oliver Thomason, Mrs. Walter Butka, Mrs. Henry Anderson, Mrs. H. B. Williams, Mrs. Robert Peterson and Miss Campbell.

A cafeteria lunch was served. Mrs. Ray Paine was chairman in charge. The coffee for the lunches was donated by the Jewel Tea Company.

The American Legion Auxiliary band also furnished a few selections. The committee in charge of the Frolic expressed their thanks to all who contributed in making the evening a success.

A radio was installed by the Gateway Electric Company for the evening. This furnished music in the halls.

Stabilization In Dairy Products Needed

Unless eliminated in the near future, the present surplus of dairy products will prove dangerous to all efforts to stabilize and improve agricultural conditions, County Agent E. G. Roth declared this week. He re-emphasized the remedy advocated by the National Dairy Council and agricultural leaders.

"If each member of the rural communities of the country would eat one-half ounce more butter per day for the next two months, the surplus would be removed and the industry stabilized," the county agent believes.

Extra butter in the diet would benefit every one. All food authorities agree, the county agent said, that no one is eating enough dairy products for best health.

"It is now recognized by all scientists that butter supplies the substances necessary for growth and health and builds resistance," he pointed out. "Butter is also known to be the most economical and palatable form of food fat. Authorities in foods and feeding recommend, in the interest of health, a daily consumption of at least one and one-half ounces of butter by each person."

"Folks in this community should take immediate advantage of this opportunity of improving their health, since it also means stabilizing one of our major industries. Eat more butter, cheese, and ice cream; drink more milk, now and in the future, and permanently secure dairying."

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

WEALTHY Alan Brennaway is in love with Shirley Dane, beautiful, society girl, who is secretly engaged to Roger Kelton. Alan, learning that Roger is to marry Shirley, lends him $500,000. He takes as collateral shares in a Macedonia development believed worthless. After Shirley and Roger are married, Shirley, ignorant of the loan, is incensed when Roger tells her Alan is trying to force him to go to Macedonia. Receiving a tip from Cynaz, shady financier, Roger visions the reduction of his indebtedness to Alan. Jealous of Alan, Roger comes to the conclusion the loan was made because of Shirley. When Alan warns Shirley of her extravagance, she tells of her investment in Corto Bellas stock. Roger offers Alan $50,000 and Alan wonders where the money is to come from. Roger resents Alan's probing into his "personal" affairs. Next day, the stock drops considerably. That night Shirley learns that Roger has lost all her inheritance. Roger tells Shirley Alan made the loan to win her and get rid of him. Shirley goes to pay her "debt" to Alan.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXII.

MACE DONIA for me! A safe investment, Alan, if you'd known Roger; but, of course, you couldn't guess how futile he is or how much more world bluff... That doesn't matter now. The point is, I cannot repay by going to Macedonia. So—

She put her empty cup aside and across the width of the room they looked at one another.

"Well, Alan?"

Alan turned heavily and went out into the passage. There was no light here and he had to grope for Shirley's coat. He came back with it, and his own.

"Put those boots on!" he barked at her. "Here's your coat. Get up."

She did not move. He told himself that he would neither explain nor defend himself in any particular, but at once he was explaining and defending.

"I have nothing to answer you with except the truth and that, I know, would be too simple—too clean for you." His anger shook him. "I spent a half-million on a wedding gift to you. I gave you the man you had told me you loved. You had told me of him—though not by name—the evening before—"

"I don't think I did. I don't remember it. In any case, you would have ignored that. A nameless individual! You would have shouldered him, mentally, out of your way. You—"

"I accepted his existence. When I discovered his identity, I gave him to you. I assumed that if you loved him, he was of the type that would only accept a loan and would slave to repay it. Macedonia was his way to repayment. When I saw what he was, I let it go. I was content to look on it as a gift to you."

She shrugged and lifted her brows.

"I don't think the nature of man is quixotic, Alan. I think it is what it wants and takes it when it can. And that's all... Don't shout at me, please! I have pride too, you know. Since Roger will not repay, I—obviously—must—"

He continued to shout at her. "Get up! Here's your coat. Where are your boots?" He took her by an arm and pulled her up. "Put this on. At once, d'you hear?"

She drew over her shoulder. "It's no use, my dear Alan. I was afraid you might have sudden and inconvenient scruples, so I put the car out of commission as soon as I had got it into your barn."

"You—what?"

"I smashed the magneto. She won't go an inch tonight. Unless you put me out into the rain, I simply must stay here."

"Oh, damn you, Shirley!"

She slipped back into her chair and he saw that she was frightened. He knew why. He had known fear of his own anger. He tried to stem the rise of it and failed.

"Damn you and damn you, Shirley! Oh, not for this silly little mess you've got us into. Not the stuff you've made Roger Kelton believe and the wreck you've helped to make of him. Not for what you believe yourself about your own rotten world and the worthless things you get from it."

He stood blinking in the early autumn sunshine and became more acutely conscious of Shirley's presence in the cottage twenty yards away.

What an irrational fool a man was to let a woman upset his life!... Perhaps she had left the cottage as soon as the rain had stopped and walked home. Perhaps she was dressing. Perhaps she had dressed and would come out at any moment.

He hurried away to the little glen at the back of the cottage where a burn came tumbling down the hillside. There he stripped, made the most of a pool by sitting in it and let the burn play over him. Then he rubbed himself dry and so worked out his stiffness.

"The thing is to try and take a detached view," he told himself as he dressed. "She was hysterical after a row with that little beast."

Keyed up. She didn't give her own nature a chance. She simply stuck to the logic of her deplorable upbringing... I was a fool to stress the business by stumping off to that barn. H'm! We'll establish the pretence that nothing happened—we'll both forget it."

He went into the cottage, treading softly in case she should still be asleep. There was her maskintosh and her water-boots near the armchair—lying just as he had banged them down on the previous night... If she had made a fool of herself, for his part he had certainly lost his temper. The sight of those boots brought the scene back with startling vividness. Then he thought of the car.

He went back to the barn, lifted the hood and examined the magneto. He was no electrician and saw that he could not repair it. Luckily he knew a man in the village who could probably manage it and promptly set off to find him. If he were quick he could be back in time for breakfast.

He supposed he would have breakfast with Shirley, then presumably they would never meet again.

And that would be just as well, all things considered.

Shirley, from the bedroom window watched Alan go without wondering where he was going. For the moment her horizon was encircled by the fact of Alan Brennaway as he strode across her line of vision. From that distance she could not see his hair nor the lines of his face, but only his stride. Roger stroled. Alan strode. It was the stride of a man brim full of energy and youth.

"He isn't old—he only looks old. Perhaps he wants me to get out before he comes back. I won't do it. I mustn't run away from him or my nerve will be gone forever."

It was not a question of her nerve, of course, and she knew it, but it was easier to think of it all like that.

"He is hard, hard—everything about him is hard," ran her thoughts. "He doesn't want me any more. Well, that's a comfort, anyway!"

It was not a comfort but at the same time it was not a scourge. Alan had once wanted her enough to ask her to marry him—had wanted her enough to throw away a huge sum of money in the hope of getting her. And now he no longer wanted her.

The hurt went far deeper than that—so deep that her reason could not fathom it. If he had only told her that she was not worth a half-million—if only he had been content to spurn her offer of herself and leave it at that! Instead he had struck at the very core of her by laughing at her sacrifice—by belittling her desire to pay.

"You even pay your debts in the way of your world—the easy way."

So Alan had thought it an easy way. He thought it had been easy for her to endure the humiliation of Roger's concession—had thought it easy for her to honor the dishonorable bargain that had been made in her name.

"It's no use thinking and thinking and going round in circles!" she told herself. She had been doing that for the greater part of the night. She had thought and thought until she had lost all sense of values and was left only with the numbing knowledge that Roger had made her a defaulter, a cheat, and that she must remain so all her life.

Police Arrest 'Hub' Strikers

Police officials take into custody one of the "disturbers of the peace" in demonstrations growing out of the Boston Needle Workers' Union strike now in progress. Two of the women arrested, who supported opposing sides in the strike issue, struck at each other, pulled hair and screamed until policemen interfered and took them into custody.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

WEALTHY Alan Brennaway is in love with Shirley Dane, beautiful, society girl, who is secretly engaged to Roger Kelton. Alan, learning that Roger is to marry Shirley, lends him $500,000. He takes as collateral shares in a Macedonia development believed worthless. After Shirley and Roger are married, Shirley, ignorant of the loan, is incensed when Roger tells her Alan is trying to force him to go to Macedonia. Receiving a tip from Cynaz, shady financier, Roger visions the reduction of his indebtedness to Alan. Jealous of Alan, Roger comes to the conclusion the loan was made because of Shirley. When Alan warns Shirley of her extravagance, she tells of her investment in Corto Bellas stock. Roger offers Alan $50,000 and Alan wonders where the money is to come from. Roger resents Alan's probing into his "personal" affairs. Next day, the stock drops considerably. That night Shirley learns that Roger has lost all her inheritance. Roger tells Shirley Alan made the loan to win her and get rid of him. Shirley goes to pay her "debt" to Alan.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXII.

MACE DONIA for me! A safe investment, Alan, if you'd known Roger; but, of course, you couldn't guess how futile he is or how much more world bluff. . . That doesn't matter now. The point is, I cannot repay by going to Macedonia. So—

She put her empty cup aside and across the width of the room they looked at one another.

"Well, Alan?"

Alan turned heavily and went out into the passage. There was no light here and he had to grope for Shirley's coat. He came back with it, and his own.

"Put those boots on!" he barked at her. "Here's your coat. Get up."

She did not move. He told himself that he would neither explain nor defend himself in any particular, but at once he was explaining and defending.

"I have nothing to answer you with except the truth and that, I know, would be too simple—to clean for you." His anger shook him. "I spent a half-million on a wedding gift to you. I gave you the man you had told me of—though not by name—the evening before—"

"I don't think I did. I don't remember it. In any case, you would have ignored that. A nameless individual! You would have shouldered him, mentally, out of your way. You—"

"I accepted his existence. When I discovered his identity. I gave him to you. I assumed that if you loved him, he was of the type that would only accept a loan and would slave to repay it. Macedonia was his way to repayment. When I saw what he was, I let it go. I was content to look on it as a gift to you."

She shrugged and lifted her brows.

"I don't think the nature of man is quisotic, Alan. I think it sees what it wants and takes it when it can. And that's all. . . Don't shout at me, please! I have pride, too, you know. Since Roger will not repay, I—obviously—must."

He continued to shout at her.

"Get up! Here's your coat. Where are your boots?" He took her by an arm and pulled her up. "Put this on. At once, if you hear?"

She drew over her shoulder. "It's no use, my dear Alan. I was afraid you might have sudden and inconvenient scruples, so I put the car out of commission as soon as I had got it into your barn."

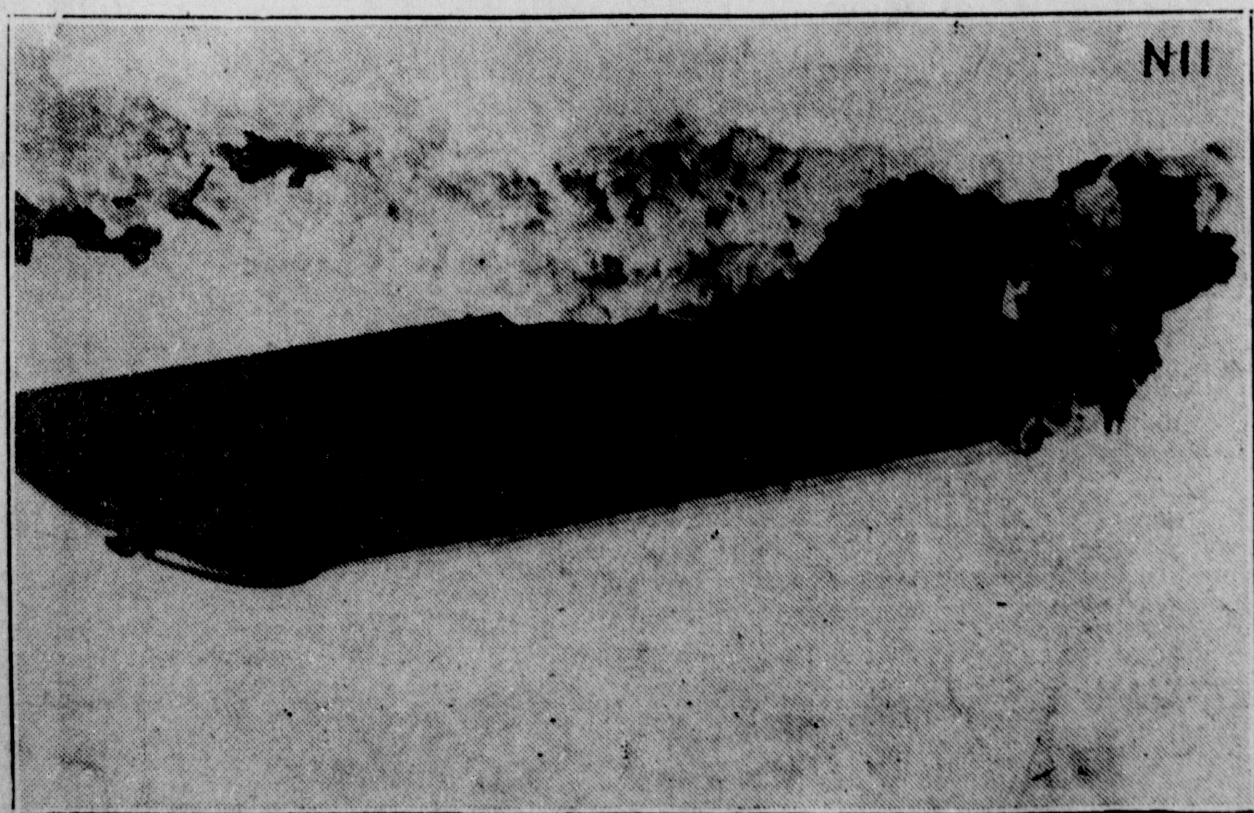

"You—what?"

"I smashed the magneto. She won't go an inch tonight. Unless you put me into the rain, I simply must stay here."

"Oh, damn you, Shirley!"

She slipped back into her chair and he saw that she was frightened. He knew why. He had known fear of his own anger. . . He tried to stem the rise of it and failed. "Damn you and damn you, Shirley! Oh, not for this silly little mess you've got us into. Not the stuff you've made Roger Kelton believe and the wreck you've helped to make of him. Not for what you believe yourself about your own rotten world and the worthless things you get from it."
